Wrecks Tammany

Food Laws
Blamed For Drug Deaths

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—(UP)—Death of 61 persons from the elixir of sulfanilamide distributed as a treatment for streptococcal infections is the most disastrous example of the inadequacy of present food and drug laws and of "the lack of common scientific decency in manufacture," the Journal of the American Medical Association said editorially today.

Investigation by Paul Nicholas Leach, director of the A. M. A. chemical laboratory, showed that death resulted from diethylene glycol, used in compounding the elixir. Separate groups of the glycol compound, of the original elixir and of another elixir prepared in the laboratory using diethylene glycol. All died.

"Lives Sacrificed"

The Journal said lives of the elixir victims "have been sacrificed simply because the toxicologic observations now reported were not determined in advance by a manufacturer who had no hesitancy in importuning physicians to use the elixir."

The Journal said it received reports of two deaths in addition to the following, listed by states:

Alabama, 6; Arkansas, 1; Georgia, 7; Illinois, 7; Mississippi, 16; Missouri, 1; Ohio, 1; Oklahoma, 9; South Carolina, 5; Tennessee, 1; Texas, 5.

FORMER ADVISOR TO PRESIDENTS IS ILL

PASADENA, Nov. 3.—(UP)—Henry M. Robinson, banker and advisor to Presidents Hoover and Wilson, was gravely ill today in Washington Memorial hospital.

He suffered a heart lesion after injuring his spine in a fall.

Robinson served on the National Defense Council and held other World War posts. He made two trips abroad in connection with the Daves plan. He is chairman of the board of the Security-First National Bank of Los Angeles.

SURVEY REVEALS VALUE OF GRAPHITE MINE FABULOUS

BY MARAH ADAMS

The eyes of the world today are focused on two men in Orange county, John Regan of Fullerton and Mark Hart of Orange, who seem destined to be included in the group of the richest men in the world, whose discovery of a graphite mine of fabulous value, which has been found to be greatly in excess of the first staggering estimates of its worth running into figures beyond human comprehension, millions, billions, trillions.

A survey of the mine located near Big Bear lake in the San Bernardino mountains, by the United States land survey has revealed that the deposit is double its first hasty estimate and perhaps much larger.

The deposit has been found to have a depth of at least 2000 feet, rather than an estimate of less than 1000. The graphite lies on a ledge 15,000 feet long and about 600 feet wide, it is thought.

Regan and Hart have received letters from all over the world regarding the mine. One was from Berlin, Germany, and one from Japan.

Regan states that the initial estimate of five billion tons of graphite has been expanded to a conservative one of more than 10 billions of tons—selling all the way from $100 to $1300 a ton.

CHINESE PREDICTS WORLD WAR
Tammany Hall-C. I. O. Crushed At Polls

LA GUARDIA RE-ELECTED IN NEW YORK

(BY UNITED PRESS)

Two results stood out today in the counting of votes in yesterday's off-year elections in 15 states—the collapse of Tammany Hall as a power in New York City and the defeat of John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization in its first concerted effort to win control of a major city government.

Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia became the first "reform" mayor in New York's history to succeed himself. He overthrew his Tammany-Democratic opponent, Jeremiah T. Mahoney, and carried his running mates, including the youthful "Rackets Buster" Thomas A. Dewey, to an overwhelming victory.

The C. I. O. lost its fight to make Patrick H. O'Brien, Democrat, mayor of Detroit, and failed to place any of its candidates on the nine-member city council. The new mayor, Richard W. Reading, received the belated support of the American Federation of Labor. Despite the reversal, Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers, C. I. O. affiliate, said that the returns showed that a "new and powerful factor has entered the city's political life."

Republicans Win

The C. I. O. and A. F. of L. fought side by side for mayoralty candidates in Akron and Canton.

Refuge In Shanghai Is Planned

SHANGHAI, Nov. 3.—(UP)—Japanese military authorities agreed today to demilitarization of a part of Nantao, in the Chinese section of Shanghai, as Chinese forces were being pushed back slowly on the western outskirts of the International Settlement.

A spokesman for the Japanese embassy announced that Japan was willing to recognize one-third of Nantao—a section north of Fong-ang road and adjoining the French concession—as a haven for refugees and that no attack would be made upon it.

The area would be policed by foreign troops. The spokesman said Chinese authorities had not yet agreed to the plan but that negotiations were continuing.

War relief agencies insisted upon retaining a corridor in the eastern edge of the demilitarized area, he added.

Warning Issued

The Japanese warned that any planes flying over their lines would be shot down.

Chapei—Scene of Utter Desolation and Ruin

Just another scene of complete destruction left in the wake of battering Japanese guns in war-torn Chapei. Once the residence of 500,000 Chinese men, women and children, the city now lies in complete ruins.

Councilmen Fight S. A. Race Agency

Backed 100 per cent by fellow councilmen, Police Commissioner Plummer Bruns will do everything in his power to keep the California Forwarding company, horse race wagering establishment, 416 West Fourth street from opening and operating in Santa Ana, he said today.

According to one partner, the company "hopes" to begin operations tomorrow.

Regarding State Attorney General U. S. Webb's ruling that places such as the one here, where a fee is charged for placing of bets and bets are telegraphed directly to Bay Meadows track, are legal, Commissioner Bruns declared emphatically:

Webb Defied

"Regardless of Mr. Webb's ruling, if there is any way possible to prevent this type of place to operate in Santa Ana, the council will take every available step to do so. We don't want this type of place in this city and the council

NINE POWER CONFERENCE IS CONVENED

BRUSSELS, Nov. 3.—(UP)—China will continue to fight until Japan halts her aggression, Dr. Wellington Koo, declared today at the opening session of the Nine Power treaty conference that was called to seek a way to end the Far Eastern conflict. The Chinese delegate said Japan's actions might lead to a World war.

If the rampant forces of Japanese aggression in the Far East are not effectively checked and faith in the pledged word is not restored, there is every danger these forces will overrun the boundaries of China and throw the world into a general war from which no important power will be able to keep aloof for long," he declared.

China, the delegate said, will only accept peace which conforms with the stipulations of the Nine Power treaty, guaranteeing China's independence and territorial integrity.

Koo spoke after Norman H. Davis, American delegate, had appealed for an "equitable adjustment" of the war. Davis was supported by Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary, Yvon Delboe, of France, and Maxim Litvinoff, of Russia. Italy alone sounded a note of opposition.

HUNT CURTISS IN ARREST CASE

W. A. Curtiss, 56, reported by Long Beach officials to be an oil promoter, and who cleared completely, the Orange county unit of the California highway patrol, of which he was a member, was arrested Saturday night on a drunk driving charge, was being sought today by Bail Bondsman Ernest Webb, Santa Ana, for allegedly cancelling a $20 check given Webb as bond premium.

Curtiss claimed two officers of San Clemente took $300 from his person while he was held at San Clemente. The officers, Chief Wendell Lovell and Officer Robert Boyce, backed by Webb, who was present, declared the man assertedly admitted he "went haywire" when drunk and did "funny things."

Tells of "Fog"

Curtiss, who is to be arraigned Friday at 10 a. m. in San Clemente city court, thanked the officers for stopping him "because I might have driven on and killed someone," according to Webb. Webb alleged that Curtiss was wrong in reporting he was driving through a dense fog, that the only "fog" was due to Curtiss' assertedly intoxicated condition.

"He whispered in my ear that he did funny things when he drank, that he bought his wife, an invalid whom he was going to visit, at Japantown."

ENTIRE JUNIOR COLLEGE FOOTBALL TEAM AIDS CAPTAIN IN DEATH RACE

Santa Ana junior college's pennant-bound football team was in another kind of race today—a race with death.

Coach Bill Cook and Don players offered their services in an effort to save the life of Vivian Stanley, 16-year-old Orange high school senior and sister of Captain Ed Stanley, star blocking half-back of the Don team.

Last evening Stanley gave the first blood transfusion and today Russell ("Rusty") Roquet, and other members of the Don team were scheduled to have their blood tested in case further blood is necessary to save his life.

Prominent Scholar

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Stanley, well known Villa Park ranchers, Miss Stanley is prominent in girls' athletics as well as in scholastic circles at Orange high school.

Miss Stanley became ill 19 days ago with the flu. Last Thursday she was rushed to St. Joseph hospital after contracting pneumonia. She was thought to be recovering until a sudden relapse yesterday necessitated a blood transfusion. Her condition this morning was reported as very serious by hospital attendants.

S. F. VOTERS DEFEAT RAPID TRANSIT BILL

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 3.—(UP)—San Francisco voters turned down a proposal to issue $49,250,000 in bonds for a new rapid transit program, including construction of a subway under downtown streets, complete returns of yesterday's municipal election showed today.

The subway count was: Yes 68,457; No 103,113.

The total vote was slightly under predictions by political observers who anticipated an exceptionally large labor vote because of a proposal seeking to prohibit picketing.

The anti-picketing proposal was defeated by only one less than 14,000 votes, the final count being: Yes 73,508; No 87,507.

A $1,600,000 hospital bond issue was voted. Another issue, for $5,000,000 worth of bonds for building sewers, was carried.

Five incumbents on the city's board of supervisors were returned to office with little opposition.

COUNTY FAVORS WELFARE MOVE

There is no objection from Orange county to the demand of the federal government that California set up a uniform standard of qualifications for social welfare workers; and withdrawal of federal funds for welfare would work a severe hardship on Orange county, where 44 per cent of expenditures are financed by federal money, it was stated today by County Welfare Director Jack W. Snow.

Some counties are objecting to uniform standards, according to word from a conference of welfare workers in Sacramento yesterday, where a plan was sought for adoption. The government will require such a standard by January 1 or withhold funds, amounting to $18,000,000 to $20,000,000 for the state this year.

Losses Are Cited

In Orange county such loss would be $384,895 for old age security, $11,313 as aid for the blind, and $28,177 for orphan aid, said Snow.

The October expenditures here were $63,695 for old age security, of which the federal share was $28,563; $3689 for blind aid; the federal share being $1154; and $7492 for orphan aid, the federal share being $1371.

NEWSPAPER TAX CASE IN COURT

PHOENIX, Ariz., Nov. 3.—(UP)—Three federal judges had under consideration today an attack on the constitutionality of Arizona's one per cent sales tax on newspapers' gross incomes.

Elisha Hanson, general counsel of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, representing the Arizona Publishing company, assailed the law's validity on grounds it "abridges the freedom of the press."

He said a legislature's power to tax and license newspapers "is a power to destroy."

"Unconstitutional"

Hanson contended neither the U. S. Constitution nor the Arizona constitution empowered the state legislature to "levy a gross receipts tax on the business of the press during one month as a condition precedent to a license to do business during the following month."

Allan K. Perry, special assistant attorney general, defending the Arizona state tax commission in the action, insisted the federal court had no jurisdiction in the case because the U. S. Supreme Court held no federal issue was involved.

"The license provided by the Arizona law," Perry said, "is intended merely as a registration fee. It is not regulatory in any sense and is not of a sufficient amount to be burdensome."

He pointed out the Arizona state supreme court ruled the tax constitutional and the U. S. Supreme Court rejected an appeal.

NOTED ADVISOR TO HOOVER DIES

PASADENA, Nov. 3.—(UP)—Henry M. Robinson, 69, banker, who was a close personal friend and advisor of Presidents Wilson and Hoover, died today.

Death resulted from a heart lesion brought on by a fall July 3, when he slipped on a rug at home and fractured two vertebrae. While convalescing from this injury, he suffered a heart attack at an exclusive gun club a fortnight ago and returned to Huntington Memorial hospital. Last night he slipped into a coma. Death came at 12:10 p. m. P.S.T.

Robinson frequently entertained Herbert Hoover at his home and was an economics-financial advisor to the former president when Hoover was in the White House. He was a member of Hoover's stabilization conference after the 1929 panic, chairman of the finance committee of the 1930 drought relief commission, and a member of Hoover's organization on unemployment relief.

DR. CLARK DIES AT HOME HERE

Dr. J. I. Clark, 62, Santa Ana physician for 33 years, died at his home today after a prolonged illness.

Dr. Clark, born in Nebraska, came to California 35 years ago and to Orange county two years later where he resided since. Until his illness, he had been an active member of the Masonic lodge No. 241 and the Elks.

He is survived by the widow, Mollie D. Clark; two sisters, Mrs. A. M. Stapleton, Craig, Neb.; Mrs. A. R. Fisher, Missouri Valley, Iowa; and one brother, C. B. Clark, Craig, Neb.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Friday at Smith and Tut-hill funeral home with the Rev. O. Scott McFarland officiating. Interment will be made at Fairhaven cemetery.

SHIPPING TIED UP IN SOUTHERN PORTS

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 3.—(UP)—An indefinite tie-up of shipping in nine southeastern ports was feared today.

A representative of five coastwise operators and an International Longshoremen's Association negotiator said they planned no further conference to discuss the settlement of a wage dispute.

Shippers had all but suspended operations in Wilmington, N. C.; Charleston, S. C.; Savannah and Brunswick, Ga.; and Jacksonville, Fort Pierce, Port Everglades, Miami and Tampa, Fla., pending outcome of the negotiations.

J. L. Bernard, department of labor conciliator, was here to mediate, but the stevedores and operators' representatives would state their cases only from "long distance."

MINIMUM ALTITUDE RULE ESTABLISHED

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—(UP)—United Airlines today ordered minimum altitudes for its Cheyenne-Salt Lake division, where 19 were killed last month when an airliner crashed into a mountain side.

East bound planes must fly at 15,000 feet, west bound at 14,000 feet, it was announced. Officials said these altitudes were sufficiently high for a plane to clear any object within 100 miles of the radio course, and 5000 feet higher than any terrain on the course itself.

AIR COMMERCE PLAN FOR ALASKA SOUGHT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—(UP)—Fred B. Fagg, director of the Bureau of Air Commerce, said today he will seek an appropriation from congress of $6,000,000 to develop an air commerce program for Alaska and Hawaii.

The program would embrace the installation of navigation aids and radio equipment.

Fagg said the bureau has doubled its staff of airline inspectors for air transport planes in the United States. Over 120 inspectors are now operating in the field, he said.

APPOINTMENT DELAY BLAMED ON POLITICS

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 3.—(UP)—Frank C. Sykes, member of the state board of prison directors, today criticized "delay" in the appointment of a new Folsom prison warden to succeed the late Clarence Larkin, killed last month in a convict riot.

Sykes urged the appointment of William J. Ryan, captain of the yard, who was injured in the same riot. He deplored what he termed "politics" in selection of a new warden.

Sykes' comment followed recurrent reports that former police captain Clyde Plummer of the Los Angeles police was under consideration for the appointment.

TEXAS SCHOOL IS RUINED BY BLAZE

KILGORE, Tex., Nov. 3.—(UP)—The Sabine high school, less than 20 miles from New London where 294 children and teachers died in an explosion last March, burned to the ground last night.

There was no one in the school when it caught fire and there was not enough of it left to explain how the fire started. Apparently it originated in the manual training shop, the same department where the New London school explosion occurred.

The Sabine school had an enrollment of 164. It was a one-story brick building. Only a few walls were standing today. A library of several thousand volumes, the records and most of the students' textbooks were lost.

Damage was estimated at $100,000.

NATION'S BEST CORN HUSKERS TO FIGHT FOR CHAMPIONSHIP

MARSHALL, Mo., Nov. 3.—(UP)—That tough rural chore of getting in the corn will be transformed into a game here tomorrow when the nation's 20 best shuckers compete in the national corn husking championship. They will perform before more than 100,000 persons out at the big Weber farm where the corn made 75 bushels to the acre.

These huskers, each a champion of runner up in his own state, will work 30 minutes at a speed that would leave the average college athlete limp. There aren't any intermissions in the husking contest, and from the moment President Roosevelt fires the starting gun, the huskers are on their feet, and the contest is on.

The huskers came to town today and immediately went to the Weber farm to see the 40-acre field in which they will pick. They agreed it was a fine stand. Some said the world record set in Ohio in 1935 by Elmer Carlson of Audubon, Ia., might be broken. Carlson picked 41.52 bushels in his 30 minutes, more than the average husker will get in half a 12-hour day.

Jake, George and Dolph Weber, the brother who own the farm, are certain they are going to see a record established.

The winner will get $100, a chance to say hello over the radio to the homefolks, and the plaudits of a throng.

Jailed Educator Called By Death

PHOENIX, Ariz., Nov. 3.—(UP)—Funeral services will be held here tomorrow for Mrs. Amelia Hunt Garcia, 61, prominent Arizona educator who died in a private hospital here where she was serving a one year to 15 months prison sentence.

A bitter constitutional row raged a month ago over the "incarceration" of the former Apache county school superintendent, convicted of presenting false claims. She never had been within the state prison.

An effort was made a month ago to force Warden A. J. Barnes to transfer her from Good Samaritan hospital here to the penitentiary at Florence. He protested on grounds she was so ill that "the trip to the prison might kill her." She was suffering from a heart and nervous ailment.

Students "Duck" College Professor

MONTICELLO, Ark., Nov. 3.—(UP)—President Marvin Bankston of Monticello A. & M. College today ordered an investigation of reports that a group of masked students broke into the room of Prof. B. C. Bradshaw Sunday night, carried him to the college campus and threw him fully clothed into a fishpond.

Asked to verify the reports, Bradshaw, a chemistry instructor, said:

"I guess so."

Students said Bradshaw had "drunked" a number of students,

DEAD MAN ELECTED TO CIVIC POSITION

HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 3.—(UP)—A dead man was elected third ward alderman in yesterday's elections.

Alderman Nathan Promise, Democrat seeking re-election, died Monday. No change could be made in the ballot. Promise received 2,122 votes. Herbert Orefice, Republican polled 914 votes.

Moderator Max Miller said Promise's votes were null and void and declared Orefice elected. Democrats planned a court contest to force a special election.

DEMOCRATS TO CONFER HERE WITH M'ADOO

TWO IMPORTANT EVENTS SLATED FOR SANTA ANA

Two events important to Democratic party circles were scheduled in Santa Ana this week, one being the dinner of the Democratic Coordinating Council of the Nineteenth Congressional district tomorrow evening, the other a meeting with U. S. Senator W. G. McAdoo Friday afternoon.

Senator McAdoo will meet with party leaders at 2 p. m. Friday in the headquarters of the Young Democrats in the Finley building, Fourth and Bush streets, according to E. Z. McKinney, chairman of the county Democratic central committee.

To Discuss Campaign
Members of the central committee, officers and members of Young Democrat clubs, the veteran's division, and the California Assembly of Democrats will attend, he said. All Democrats are invited.

The Democratic Coordinating Council session at Daniger's cafe, tomorrow at 7 p. m., will assemble central committee representatives from the three counties of the Nineteenth Congressional district. McKinney also is chairman of the council, with Martell Thompson, of Orange, as secretary. About 40 members are expected to attend, for a discussion of senatorial and congressional campaign matters.

SURVEY SHOWS MINE'S VALUE

road to the rugged mountain country where the mine is located now under way, the owners are considering location of a site for a refinery. Many offers have been received from cities outside of Orange county to supply sites, with none having been received from a single Orange county city, says Regan.

The mine discovered by Hart, owner of a trucking business and Regan, a civil engineer, is controlled by a corporation of four men: Hart, Regan, Norris Hilton of Santa Ana, who assayed the ore, and Oscar Seiler, Long Beach attorney.

C. O. Hewins, a gold miner, whose gold Hart was hauling when he discovered the graphite, will receive a share of the profits, it is understood.

The site of the mine is especially interesting, says Regan, as it has been the setting for many picnic parties, picnickers strewing the ground about the fabulous wealth with beer bottles and cans. Regan was instrumental in promoting and founding the Biograph Motion Picture company in Hollywood some years ago.

The Orange men have been contacted by the Ford Motor company who wish to buy quantities of graphite for paint for automobiles. It is also used for tires, stove polish, bearings, lubricants, pencils and many other things.

cumbe, San Diego county, 20 new dresses once when he was drinking," Webb said.

Usual Price
Webb filed civil suit in the local justice court yesterday, asking $170 from Curtiss. He will attach Curtiss' bank account to insure against loss of bond, amounting to $150 plus the bond premium of $20. Webb, who, Curtiss said in a 240-word telegram to San Clemente's mayor, Governor Frank Merriam and District Atty. William Menon, charged too much for the bond, charged the usual price 10 per cent of $150 plus $5 for the $0-mile roundtrip to San Clemente. Webb asserted his charges are the lowest in this part of the country. He went to the beach city at 11 p. m. and did not get home until 5 a. m. the following day.

Although the bond is $200 at San Clemente frequently, Webb, on Curtiss' behalf, had the bond set at $150, he pointed out, thus saving Curtiss an additional $5.

Says He Has Case
The officers and Webb described Curtiss' charges as asserted "ridiculous and wholly fabricated." Webb said he could file charges against Curtiss, alleging issuance of a bank check with intent to defraud, also, and could bring him to county jail at once on the drunk driving charge.

Through an error in reports to E. Raymond Cato, head of the highway patrol, he started an investigation of men in the Orange county unit of the patrol, then discovered they had nothing to do with the Curtiss case. Curtiss could not be found by Webb today. "When we find him, probably he will offer us an apology," Webb said. "He owes us one."

Fish porters in the Billingsgate Market, London, wear peculiar heavy leather hats which weigh between five and six pounds each. Fourteen hours' work is required to make one of these hats, which contain hundreds of nails.

NEED OF CO-OPERATION TO PROTECT CHILDREN IS CITED

Laying the responsibility for increasing moral slackness directly on the home and the parents, Harrison E. White of Santa Ana, Boy Scout executive of Orange county, urged parents, church and school officials to closer co-operation to protect children from moral harm, in a challenging address to parents attending the annual fathers' night program of the Seal Beach Parent-Teacher association at the school auditorium last night.

"Summer camps are becoming more and more an accommodation bureau for parents in line with the current tendency to let some one else take care of the child," he said. "Either the schools and churches must be given more authority, or the parents must provide the good example, which is now the one thing most lacking in our home life."

Paying special tribute to J. H. McLaughlin, district superintendent of schools for "maintaining a school in which fewer moral problems develop than in most other districts in the county," White said. "Any man who is able to face facts, and to minimize their effects by proper organization is an exceedingly valuable member of the community."

The milk fund, maintained by the P. T. A. for undernourished children, will not be needed for any child in the four upper grades, McLaughlin reported. Examination for the four lower grades will be made later this month.

Entertainment features were provided by Laurie Eugenia and Baby June LaVerne, directed by their father, Hugo LeVerne, in a half hour program of dancing, songs, a skit, and several piano solos.

The new state social security laws, effective September 1, must be approved by the federal security board before federal funds will be contributed. In approving the new legislation, the federal board required a standard of qualifications by January 1, to apply to workers employed after that date, but not to those now employed.

"Career Service"
A plan approved by welfare workers at a convention in Yosemite October 11-12, which Snow attended, was referred to the California supervisors association, as the legal authority for adopting such a plan.

This plan viewed the work as "career service" and made a college degree as the basis requirement for a social worker. "To open the way to the goal of highest professional training in the service," it was stated. Workers now in service were credited with their experience as equivalent to a college degree.

As an illustration of the qualification requirements proposed, Snow gave those for a case aide, which include a college degree, such personal qualities as tact, poise, judgment; an aptitude and desire to continue in the work; a willingness to accept supervision and obtain further training.

"These requirements," said Snow, are not unreasonable and this county does not see any reason for objecting to such a uniform standard. The county does not give up its right to "hire and fire" workers.

NAVY FLIERS DIE IN CRASH

val air station on Lake Washington here.

All five dead were reported to have been on the big amphibian. Four bodies were reported hurled clear of the ship, ground crews searched the wreckage for a fifth.

Fliers "Bailed" Out
Two fliers "bailed out" of the smaller plane and landed safely with parachutes.

T. V. Singleton, a witness to the crash, said one of the planes turned over four or five times in the air and then dove nose first between trees in the distance.

"Two men bailed out of the ship, one parachute opening immediately and the other falling to open until the man was several hundred feet from the ground," he said. The ship was about 1500 feet in the air and appeared to have a crumpled wing, Singleton said. There was another ship circling around above where the big plane fell.

The fliers who escaped grimly watched the search for the body of their seventh companion. The crash was about a mile south of Boeing field.

Naval officials immediately threw a tight line of secrecy about the mishap.

Ed Grinstein, passing the crash scene in a car, reported both planes came hurtling through the clouds. He said the ships apparently had been flying together in maneuvers.

First, Grinstein said, there was a terrific noise. Then he said he glanced up to see the larger ship diving toward the earth, and the two escaping aviators floating to earth in parachutes above their falling plane.

CHINESE SEES "WORLD WAR"

"The delegates of several powers, represented at this conference, have expressed a sincere desire to bring about cessation of hostilities now raging between my country and Japan and to work for the restoration of peace by agreement," Dr. Koo said.

"China, whose love of peace is traditional, appreciates this gesture of goodwill. We desire peace, but know that we cannot obtain it in the presence of Japanese aggression."

"As long as that aggression persists we are determined to continue our resistance. It is not peace at any price that will either render justice to China or do credit to civilization," he said.

Eden conferred with Davis after the American delegate had had luncheon with Yvon Delbos, French foreign minister.

Eden also saw Ambassador Saburo Kurusu, Japanese ambassador, and it was understood they discussed whether the ambassador would be willing to act as a channel for the conference to keep in touch with the Japanese government.

End Essential
Davis appealed to the international representatives for "equitable adjustment" of the Chinese. Japanese war and warned that its end was essential to the peace of the world.

"The government I represent is in full agreement with every word he (Davis) said," declared Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary.

Yvon Delbos, the French foreign minister, emphasized the sanctity of treaties, particularly the Washington Nine Power pact.

"I firmly hope that by taking our stand on that treaty," he said, "we shall find a peaceful solution."

Italy sounded the only note of discord at the opening session of the conference by warning that the powers cannot "quarantine" Japan.

The conference can merely invite China and Japan to enter direct negotiation, said Count Luigi Aldrovandi-Marescotti, Premier Mussolini's representative here.

Obviously referring to the recent speech of President Roosevelt in Chicago in which he suggested a "quarantine" of aggressor nations, Aldrovandi-Marescotti said:

Coercion Out of Question
"There can be no question of any direct or indirect coercive measures being taken. Nor can we speak more or less of a moral quarantine. It is only the parties directly concerned who are in a position to eliminate underlying causes."

Delbos paid high tribute to Mr. Roosevelt whom he said had put the United States in the "forefront of the countries working for peace."

Successful objectives of the conference, he said, would be the "signal of hope for the entire world."

Aldrovandi-Marescotti said, however, that without Japan at the conference any discussion would be useless. Therefore, he added, the Italian government moves the full restoration regarding any effort by the powers to adopt a resolution which merely would show that the countries concerned are powerless to do anything.

It would be useless, he concluded, to send a commission to the Far East to study the situation because previous commissions had never accomplished anything.

Davis warned earlier that those nations which embark on policies directed toward economic self-sufficiency, thus foregoing the benefits of international trade and financial relations, create conditions "conducive to a threat to peace."

Eden had said that peace is of "vital interest to every country."

"War is a contagion that may spread," he declared, "but even if its direct efforts are confined to the problems actually at war the profound distress and loss of national prosperity which must inevitably ensue adversely affects all countries."

"We in this conference have come together by virtue of the fact that we represent those powers which are more directly interested in the Far East."

Eden hinted at the possibility of a new approach to Japan in means of settling the conflict.

Efforts Hampered
He regretted that Japan refused an invitation to the conference.

be shot down without warning, regardless of their marks. It had been reported that two British marked monoplane had flown over the Japanese area on the northwestern outskirts of Shanghai.

A Japanese spokesman reported that British military authorities had suggested that the planes probably were camouflaged Chinese ships.

Foreign military and naval commanders discussed with Japanese authorities means of safeguarding foreign sections.

May Stop Bombing
Representatives of the Japanese embassy and consulate general requested lists of foreign property from foreign consul generals.

The request was taken to mean that the Japanese would refrain from bombing or shelling areas not occupied by Chinese troops.

The discussions on methods of safeguarding foreign sections took place aboard the United States cruiser Augusta between Rear Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, United States commander in the Far East, Sir Charles Little, the British commander, French Admiral Lebigot, Japanese Major General Kumakichi Harada and Japanese Consul Katsuo Okazaki.

TAMMANY HALL IS DEFEATED

O., but lost in both cities to Republican incumbents.

In Pittsburgh, the C. I. O. claimed partial credit for the re-election of Mayor Cornelius D. Scully, Democrat, while it hailed the election of its mayoralty candidates in Duquesne and Clairton, Pa., both of whom are C. I. O. organizers.

Two nationally known Democrats figured in the results. James M. Curley, Massachusetts' original "Roosevelt man," former governor and former mayor of Boston, was defeated in his political comeback. He had sought to enter city hall for the third time, but found his career ruined by a 35-year-old school committeeman.

The other prominent Democrat, U. S. Senator A. Harry Moore, was elected governor of New Jersey for the third time. With the backing of a Democrat, machine boss of Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, Moore defeated the Rev. Lester H. Cleve, Presbyterian minister turned political reformer.

Win Congressional Seat
Republicans picked up a Congressional seat in the 17th district, New York City, where Bruce Barton, advertising executive running on the Republican-Fusion ticket, defeated his Democratic and American Labor Party opponents.

The seat formerly was held by a Democrat, the late Theodore A. Peyer. Republicans retained two seats in upstate New York.

Jasper McLevy, New England's only Socialist mayor, won a third term as chief executive of Bridgeport, Conn., piling up an overwhelming lead over his Republican and Democratic opponents.

Kentucky experienced another "bloody" election day. One person was shot fatally, a sheriff, three deputies and 21 precinct officers were arrested, and there were numerous brawls during the balloting on minor offices.

The evidence of national trends in the voting throughout the country was inconclusive.

OUTSTANDING ELECTION RESULTS

Congress
Republicans gained one seat with election of Bruce Barton, advertising executive, in New York City's "Silk Stocking" district formerly represented by a Democrat. Republicans retained two other seats in New York state.

Governors
New Jersey—A. Harry Moore, Democrat, had margin of 47,000 votes over Republican Lester H. Cleve, with count nearly complete. Present governor is Republican.

Virginia—Democrat James H. Price elected in usual Democratic sweep.

Cities
New York—Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia, heading anti-Tammany coalition ranging from Republicans to Communists, re-elected by 1,344,016 against $89,591 for his Tammany opponent, Jeremiah T. Mahoney. Rackets Buster Thomas E. Dewey elected district attorney of New York (Manhattan) over Tammany man.

Detroit—Richard W. Reading elected mayor by more than 100,000 margin over C.I.O.-supported Patrick O'Brien. C.I.O. also defeated in effort to elect city council members.

Pittsburgh—Cornelius Scully, Democrat and C.I.O.-supported, re-elected mayor.

Boston—James M. Curley, former mayor and governor, defeated Maurice J. Tobin, Democrat.

Cleveland—Harold H. Burton, Republican, re-elected mayor.

Bridgeport, Conn.—Mayor Jasper McLevy, Socialist, re-elected for third term, swamping Republican and Democratic candidates.

TWO ARE INJURED
Mrs. Addie Rude, 43, Anaheim, and Mabel Knox, 45, Compton, drivers, were injured last night at Orange and 101 highway, south of Fullerton, when their cars collided. Mrs. Knox was making a left turn at the time.

American Beauties

Any girl who can get away with a hat like this undoubtedly comes under the heading of "exotic beauty." Furthermore, not many women are pretty enough to be able to wear their hair in thick curls about shoulders, pluck their eyebrows and use eyeshadow. But Temptation Fox, brown-haired, blue-eyed radio star, is beautiful from head to foot, and as charming as she is pretty, the former Pomona College coed is one of radio's loveliest actresses.

COUNCILMEN OPPOSE AGENCY

is behind me 100 per cent in this matter."

Commissioner Bruns visited the place yesterday to advise those in charge of his intentions.

Assistant Police Chief Harry Fink said the police department "certainly would" investigate the place "and if any violation of the law is discovered, the place would be open any more."

Active partners are H. B. Wilson and Sam Winaguro, both Los Angeles. A third partner is silent. Wilson said he would be headquartered at Bay Meadows, Winaguro would be in charge here.

Assistant District Atty. Preston Turner declared, due to action against such places in Los Angeles, he believed the courts soon would rule on legality of such operations.

May Be Legal
"Our office hasn't come to any definite conclusion regarding the local establishment and is awaiting a copy of Mr. Webb's official ruling," Turner said. "Action by our office depends upon what this establishment does—how far it goes. A horse wagering law was amended in 1935 and seems to make the type of wagering scheduled for Santa Ana, legal."

According to City Atty. Lew Blodgett, who is investigating the situation today, Justice E. J. Marks, district court of appeals, now in session at San Diego, ruled in a case against Wilson, that this type of wagering is legal under the 1935 amendment to Section 237-A of the penal code. The law was adopted in 1933.

The method used provides that persons place bets at the establishment and that the agent forward the bets to an associate, inside of the Bay Meadows track. According to United Press dispatches, the cut, therefore, would be the same as other pari-mutuel bets, eight per cent track, four per cent state, plus presumed private commission at the betting headquarters. It is believed the private commission would be 10 per cent, here, as in Los Angeles where operations are carried on now under a court injunction order.

FORMER OFFICER IS SHOT IN HOLDUP TRY

RICHMOND, Calif., Nov. 3. — (UP)—R. W. Flinn, 36, who told authorities he formerly had been employed as a special policeman for Alameda county, was shot and critically wounded today in what was described as an attempted holdup in a San Pablo night club.

Witnesses of the affray told police Flinn was shot by a night watchman after Flinn had threatened patrons of the place with a revolver and ordered them to surrender their money and valuables.

Police said Flinn entered the night club about 4 a. m. by climbing through a second story window from the front porch. He cut the telephone wires, they said, and entered a main room where several men and women were finishing an early morning party.

GUILD STRIKE CLOSES PAPER

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Nov. 3.— (UP)—Publication of the Wilkes-Barre Record, only morning newspaper here, was suspended "indefinitely" today as result of a strike of 40 editorial employees, members of the American Newspaper Guild.

Printers, pressmen and stereotypers, members of the Typographical, Stereotypers' and Pressmen's unions, American Federation of Labor affiliates, refused to cross the picket lines when they reported for work at 9 o'clock last night.

Demands Made
Stanley A. Kupstas, president of the Wilkes-Barre chapter of the guild, a Committee for Industrial Organization affiliate, said the strike was called to force publishers of the four newspapers in the city to meet guild demands. The other papers are the Times-Leader and the Evening News, both of which are evening papers, and the Sunday Independent.

Kupstas said the walkout was called after the four publishers had offered their employees a "company union" contract. This contract, he said, would have kept out about half the employees with exceptions, and would have classified as "executives" all employees earning $25 or more a week.

No Wage Minimums
The publishers set no wage minimums, according to Kupstas. Maximum wages for those with more than two years experience were $15, with a top maximum, after five years experience, at $40 per week, he said.

The Record's general manager, L. J. Van Laeys, said the paper was not concerned with the importance of publishing "either today or tomorrow."

"A far greater issue—the freedom of the press—is at stake," he said.

Van Laeys said the demands of the strikers included wage increases as high as 100 per cent and a guild shop.

Gorgonia Tribe Meets Tonight

Members of the Tribe of Gorgonia, honor Boy Scout camp group, will meet at 7:30 o'clock tonight in Scout headquarters, to plan the annual banquet and to start preliminary plans for next summer's camping period.

Dick Wright, Santa Ana, will be chairman of the meeting. Ed Elliott, assistant coach at the Huntington Beach high school, is advisor to the group. Jack McDavid, Yorba Linda, and Gordon Walker, Placentia, will attend the meeting as representatives of the Tribe in the northern section of the county.

TEA IN CEYLON BITTER

COLOMBO (UP)—It is difficult to get a decent cup of tea in the trains of Ceylon, the home of tea. That is the complaint with which

H. C. N. Yates, chairman of the Dimbulla Planters' Association, confounded the Tea Propaganda Board meeting here to decide on means to popularize the beverage throughout the world.

We pull paunches!

We don't run a gymnasium. We aren't in the boxing business. But we've got a copy-right on making big men look a lot less bulky than nature built them.

And the answer is a simple one—we simply take an over-sized contour and streamline it perfectly with a Hart Schaffner and Marx "Slenderizer".

REPORTS FROM EXPERTS TO BE MADE IN COURT

The answer to the Eden oil case question—did anyone tamper with road oil samples, to frame a political plot—may be given in superior court next Monday.

That date is fixed for hearing of reports from experts authorized by the court to analyze samples of Eden road oil, supposedly identical with other samples which showed a defective oil quality and precipitated a campaign sensation last year.

Election Defeats
When the other oil samples were tested, and it was indicated that the road oil sold to the county by the Eden refinery contained as much as 26 per cent of water and mud, the effect was to defeat two members of the board of supervisors then coming up for reelection.

Subsequently the county refused to pay a $1729 bill for the road oil and the Eden company brought suit to collect it, questioning the authenticity of the tests and the means of taking samples.

"Something Wrong"
Still later, the county grand jury report intimated that politics was at the bottom of the charges against the road oil.

When the case came to trial before Judge B. F. Warner, of San Bernardino, he received evidence regarding the oil and its analysis to the point where he commented that something was wrong somewhere. But he halted the trial and ordered a new analysis of some samples that had not been previously tested.

Laboratory Analysis
These samples had been kept in possession of the county when the other samples were taken to a laboratory by county representatives, including Supervisor John Mitchell, for the tests that showed defective oil. They were turned over to Dr. Henry O. Beckman, of Caltech laboratories, for analysis. Dr. Beckman's report, with that of a Long Beach laboratory, is scheduled to be made to the court next Monday.

If the samples just tested do not show the same report that was shown by the other samples taken at the same time, the answer to the question whether there had been tampering with the samples would be answered, it was pointed out. If they show approximately the same report as the other samples, the court will be left just where it was.

MRS. NORTON IS ANXIOUS TO GET RIGHT TO SAIL

Mrs. Violet Wells Norton, to be freed soon from the Orange county jail on an appeals court reversal of her conviction on federal charges she used the mails to defraud Clark Gable, screen star, was "champing at the bit" today, awaiting funds from home to take her back to her beloved England, and also to take her daughter, Gwendoline, 14, who the mother still insists, is the daughter of Gable back to England.

Mrs. Norton, who is an English woman, native of Croydon (airport center), Surrey county, England, also is "champing at the bit" to start a new life—in motion pictures and on the stage in England—a life she already has been invited to partake of.

Will Have Regrets
Today, she was preparing to lay aside her jail uniform. She was setting her clothing pressed and in readiness for the long journey, with her daughter, to New York, then England. She expects to leave Santa Ana within a short time, almost immediately after receiving official notice of the appeals court reversal. And, in spite of the fact she came here to serve a one-year jail term, she will have her regrets when she leaves.

"Sheriff Logan Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Lacy (jailer and matron, respectively) and Deputy Matron Mrs. Henrietta Houghtaling have been very wonderful to me," she said.

Before she leaves, however, there will be a jolly reunion—for Gwendoline will be here for a visit! Right! Gwendoline now is in a private school in Southern California.

Mrs. Norton was convicted on the fraud charge after she sent letters to Gable, asking him regarding the support of Gwendoline. She has served approximately half of the sentence already, in spite of the higher court's reversal.

Purse silver is too soft for sterling silver use, so 71-2 per cent copper is added to make it harder.

Red Cross Drive Aides

At the left is Don Jerome, named chairman of the business and manufacturing district and advance gifts committee for the annual Red Cross roll call of members. At the right is Joel Ogle, who will head the publicity, advertising and speakers committee. The appointments were announced today by Wayne Harrison, roll call chairman for the Santa Ana chapter.

JEROME, OGLE NAMED ON CALL

TWO LOCAL MEN ARE PRAISED IN SCHOOL STORY

Preparatory to launching the annual Red Cross roll call of members on Armistice Day, Wayne Harrison, general roll call chairman for the Santa Ana chapter, today announced appointment of two committee chairmen.

Harrison named Don Jerome, past exalted ruler of the Santa Ana lodge of Elks, as chairman of the business and advance gift committee. Joel Ogle, well-known Santa Ana attorney, was named chairman of the committee in charge of publicity, speakers and advertising.

Jerome is expecting to announce members of his committee on Friday. Ogle will name his co-workers early next week, Harrison said.

EDITOR PICKS HAVEN'S VERSE

Latest of Santa Ana writers to receive recognition from the Crown Publishing company, is Robert A. Haven, 322 South Van Ness avenue, whose poem, "Sea-Dream," has just been accepted for inclusion in the Crown Anthology of Verse, the annual to be off the press early in 1938.

This anthology is made up of work of contemporary poets of the country, and the poems used are selected from those submitted in the annual $250 prize contest of which the publishing house is sponsor. When the book is released from the press, the winners in the contest will be announced.

Robert Haven's success in having a poem selected was due entirely to Mrs. Haven, who sent several copies of her husband's work in for competition, without his knowledge. He writes mainly for his own amusement, and as a relaxation from his duties as credit manager for an electrical wholesale company.

Other Santa Anans receiving this recognition are Beulah May with the poem "The East Wind" and Mina Shaffer (Mrs. Robert Ranney Shaffer) with the poem "In a Lady's Dressing Room." All three will be eligible for the prizes offered. Included with the local writers in the anthology will be Mary Merrick Smale of Orange, whose poem "God's Prisoner" also has been accepted.

MOBERLY STAYS IN CAMP OF VETERANS

Members of Calumet Camp, United Spanish War Veterans, persuaded Senior Vice Commander Hanigan C. Moberly to withdraw his resignation as an officer of the camp last night. The resignation was tendered by Moberly during the business meeting. Moberly gave as the reason for his resignation, the fact that he did not want to be advanced to the post of commander next year.

He was persuaded to complete his term of office after members promised not to nominate him for the higher post.

During the business meeting five applications for membership were approved and two others were mustered into the organization.

Those mustered into the Camp were: Joseph Sparrow, Newport Beach, and Thomas F. Graham, Santa Ana. Applicants who were voted into membership were: Thomas F. Graham, Carl Morecraft, Joseph Nievenheim, Dr. Henry Lowenthal and Newton L. Wariner. Wariner is transferring his membership from Wichita Falls, Tex.

C. OF C. GIVES BOOK CONTRACT

Contract for printing 15,000 copies of the new chamber of commerce booklet was awarded yesterday to Carlisle Dennis, operator of Dennis Printers of Santa Ana. The contract was awarded on the total bid of $775, this price to include all engravings. The booklet will be produced under a new offset method recently installed by Dennis.

Decision to award the contract to the Santa Ana printer was reached yesterday at a meeting of the booklet committee representing the city and chamber of commerce. Members of this committee are: Councilman William Penn and Joseph Smith and Auditor Lloyd Banks, representing the city; Harry Hanson, W. F. Crodgy and Rex Kennedy, president of the chamber of commerce, and Secretary Howard I. Wood, as ex-officio members, representing the chamber of commerce.

Pictorial Map
The booklet, combining city and county features, particularly the coast section of the county, will have 16 profusely illustrated pages and will be printed in sepia and orange. Included in the booklet will be a pictorial map of the county illustrating the various points of interest in the entire county.

Howard Wood, secretary of the chamber of commerce, said today that all illustrations in the booklet are new and were taken specially for the chamber publication. It is expected that the booklet will be ready for circulation within a few weeks.

HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD
Without Laxatives—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Nuts

The stomach should digest two pounds of food daily. When you eat heavy, greasy, crusty or rich foods or when you are nervous, hurried or chew poorly—your stomach pours out too much acid. Your food doesn't digest and you have gas, heartburn, nausea, pain or sour stomach. You feel your acid upset all over.

Doctors say there is a relative for stomach pain. It is dangerous and foolish. It takes these little black ladies called Bell-Une for indigestion to make the strong stomach fluids harmless, relieve distress in 3 minutes and put your back on your feet. Relief is so quick it is amazing and one use the package proves it. Ask for Bell-Une for indigestion. Sold everywhere. (c) Bell & Co. 1937.

GROUPS CONFER ON NEW "SITE"

Members of the Merchants' Division of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce will meet with the directors' building committee at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow to discuss possible locations for new chamber headquarters.

Ivie Stein who is representing the Merchants Division on the building committee, will preside at the conference. Members of the committee, in addition to Stein, are Fred Merker, Harry Hanson, C. H. Hoiles, and President Rex Kennedy and Secretary Howard Wood as ex-officio members.

Wood said today that directors of the chamber are attempting to obtain an expression from all members relative to location of new headquarters for the organization before any definite step is taken. Members of the office staff, in addition to sending letters to many members are contacting others in the business district.

With the refusal of the supervisors to renew the lease to property now occupied by the chamber adjacent to the Courthouse Annex, the civic body has two alternatives facing them. The organization can accept the $3500 offered by the county for the building occupied and owned by the chamber and apply the money on a new building on leased property, or it can rent offices in some downtown building. The directors' committee was named to obtain definite propositions on both phases of the problem.

MISS KEARNS RECOVERING

NEWS OF ORANGE

BOARD PLANS PARADE ENTRY IN FULLERTON

ORANGE, Nov. 3.—The city of Orange will enter a band as the contribution of the community toward the Armistice day celebration in Fullerton, according to a decision reached at a meeting of the city council last night.

The band, to be supplied by Earl Totter, of Fullerton, will include about 25 musicians, a drum major and a flag bearer. Councilman K. E. Watson Jr., was appointed by Mayor A. C. Boice to make arrangements for the band's appearance in the event.

Concerts Proposed
Captain Bayless and Totter appeared before the council asking to present a series of band concerts. No decision was reached. Totter offered to present a Sunday afternoon or holiday concert at the city park on the completion of the new band stand.

Councilman Henry Bandick stated that he had consulted with an engineer of the Southern California Edison company in regard to lighting for the band stand, and with Leon Eckles, director of the Federal Music project, who had suggested that no lights be placed in the back of the stand as such lighting interfered with the view of the audience. Councilman Bandick and Watson were appointed to make arrangements for installing lights.

Reports Presented
A report from Building Inspector Frank Dale revealed that 15 electrical permits had been issued in the past month with fees amounting to $55.30, 21 plumbing inspections made with fees $51.50 and 35 building permits issued with fees totaling $95, making fees collected, $4617.55.

George H. Franzen, chief of police, reported that during the past month 27 arrests had been made and 35 traffic citations issued by the department. Mrs. Clara Haines, executive secretary of the welfare work by the community, 395 garments received at the store and 140 given out. The balance in the library fund was reported as $4617.55.

A request from the Cruze pool hall on North Cypress street for a permit to sell beer was denied on the motion of Councilman Carl M. Carlson, seconded by Councilman J. E. Riley. Mayor Boice stated that he believed that there are enough cocktail lounges and beer parlors here at present time.

Church Group To Meet Tomorrow

ORANGE, Nov. 3.—Members of the Women's fellowship of the Orange Presbyterian church will hold their individual group meetings tomorrow at 2 o'clock.

The January section will meet at the home of Mrs. John Hirst, 445 North Center street, while the February group will be entertained by Mrs. Marion Flippin on North Prospect street. The March group will work at the church in preparation for the rummage sale which will be held by the fellowship Friday and Saturday in the church basement. The April group will also work at the church, and members are asked to bring their own service for a pot luck luncheon. September members also are asked to bring their service.

July members will meet at the church but will have a box lunch at noon. October members are asked to bring rummage for the coming sale. Mrs. Robert B. McAulay will entertain the November group at her home on North Waverly street, while the December section will meet at the home of Mrs. F. E. Harrison, 469 North Orange street.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning!
The liver should pour out two pounds of bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels, gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sick and the world looks blue.
Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes some good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmonizing, gentle, yet ensuring in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Name. Absolutely refuse anything else. Size.

COUNCIL PREPARES TO ACT ON SEWER PLANS

ORANGE, Nov. 3.—A special meeting of the Orange city council will be held when an expected communication is received from the city of Santa Ana regarding a request made by Orange to be allowed to withdraw from the outfall sewer district, according to decision reached at a meeting of the council last night.

Report Shows Boost In Water Levels

ORANGE, Nov. 2.—Water levels in the city wells have raised seven feet over those of last year, according to a report given at a meeting of the city council last night by W. J. Richardson, city water superintendent. Water levels November 1, 1937, registered 205 feet and November 1, 1936, they were 212 feet.

Octette Group Is Entertained

ORANGE, Nov. 3.—Autumn flowers filled the home of Mrs. Le Vene Duker when she entertained the Octette Coterie club at her South Pine street home last night.

Members passed the hours sewing and chatting, after which they gathered around the large dining room table for a refreshment course in the autumn motif. Individual places were marked by clever nut cups.

Present were the Misses Emma Duker and Elva Wefel, Mesdames Elsa Duker, Le Vene Duker, all of Orange, and Mrs. Agnes Clasen, of Anaheim. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Cora Alice Ulrich in Anaheim.

Cannon's 'Soul' Beyond Repair

ORANGE, Nov. 3.—Hitherto unknown facts about cannons were revealed at a meeting of the Orange city council last night, when plans for repairing the cannon which stands on the lawn in front of the city hall were made. It was reported that the "felloes" of the cannon were nearly gone and unless this repair work is undertaken the weapon of defense would fall apart shortly.

"Felloes" of a cannon, it was brought out, are the wooden rims which are inside the metal tires on the wheels which hold the spokes. As the cannon is not likely to be used again, it was decided to make the replacement with white pine instead of hickory.

The cannon is one given the city at the close of the World war. Comment on the war machine revealed that the big gun is rusted beyond repair with its "soul" almost entirely corroded by fog and rain. The "soul" is the steel lining of the muzzle.

At the organization meeting, Mrs. D. McCallum was elected section leader. Samples of various types of art work were displayed by Mrs. C. M. Wilson, of Huntington Beach.

Outline Program Of Ebell Section

NEWPORT BEACH, Nov. 3.—A variety of projects will be undertaken by members of the newly organized arts and crafts section of the Ebell club, according to plans made at the meeting of the group Monday at the clubhouse. A noon luncheon will be held. Members are to bring individual lunches and coffee will be made at the clubhouse.

At the organization meeting, Mrs. D. McCallum was elected section leader. Samples of various types of art work were displayed by Mrs. C. M. Wilson, of Huntington Beach.

ORANGE PERSONALS

ORANGE, Nov. 2.—Mrs. A. C. Boice and Mrs. Mamie Kogler spent Tuesday in Long Beach with friends.

Report Shows Boost In Water Levels

ORANGE, Nov. 2.—Water levels in the city wells have raised seven feet over those of last year, according to a report given at a meeting of the city council last night by W. J. Richardson, city water superintendent. Water levels November 1, 1937, registered 205 feet and November 1, 1936, they were 212 feet.

C. C. Bonebrake, city engineer and Gordon X. Richmond, city attorney, were asked by the mayor, A. C. Boice, to accompany members of the council to a regular meeting of the outfall sewer committee from cities of the district to be held at Anaheim November 10.

Mayor Boice stated that in the event Orange was released from the district it was thought by many that La Habra would ask to withdraw and that Anaheim and Fullerton might follow with requests to be allowed to withdraw. The city of Orange already has made application to erect a sewer treatment plant west of the city as a WPA project if permission to withdraw is secured.

Young People Of Church In Party

ORANGE, Nov. 3.—The old Flippin home on East Chapman avenue was a deal place for a Halloween party when 30 members of the college department of the Presbyterian church held a "spook" conference. Miss Helen Talbert led the various committees in planning the party, and games were under the direction of Bob Clifford.

Refreshments of sandwiches, pumpkin pie and cider were served after a scavenger hunt by a committee headed by Miss Agnes Adams. Interesting fortunes were told by Miss Fernie Summer, advisor of the group, and Miss Helen Haines.

CORNS

These soothing, healing pads instantly relieve pain, stop shoe pressure, safely remove corns. Cost but a trifle. Sold everywhere.

Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads

LET'S GO BUY-BUY WITH BETTY ANN

FOR A CENTER PIECE, try gardenias running down the center of the table. Baby roses in a round, shallow pansy container. Baby mums (one yellow then an orange) in a shallow pansy vase. One poinsettia in a tall, narrow vase. Try to get away from stereotyped vase arrangement.

HOME CAFE, 314 N. Broadway. Go in today and enjoy a real meal at the HOME CAFE, where there is fine service and a minimum of hustle and bustle. Dine in their comfortable restaurant where costs are considerably less than in places of comparable quality. Chicken served on Tuesdays and Saturdays for only 60c.

SCOLLERS (312 N. Sycamore) are noted for their exquisite window displays and beautiful clothes. But their window today simply left us speechless. After profuse ohs and ahs we'll try to settle down. A pure white dioré formal stands and outlined against dense black. A cream white lame formal is backgrounded by black.

STEIN'S, 307 W. Fourth. Personal Christmas cards! Remember your friends at Christmas, especially those friends that you mean to see often thru the year but don't greet during the holidays shows that you think of them. It's better to order now because you get a better selection and there's just that much off your mind. STEIN'S have cards as low as 50 for $1.00 with your name imprinted. They're good looking, too. They look like twice the price.

LAMBROS SHOE SHINING PARLOR, (opposite Kress' Store), 108 E. Fourth. Have your last season's shoes dyed to match your newest gown. In female, there's nothing smarter than a solid colored dress with a belt or scarf of flowers to match your shoes. Shoes dyed to match your accessories. Summer shoes that are worn will look new when they're dyed at LAMBROS SHOE SHINING PARLOR.

For decoration, nosegays of roses, forget-me-nots and valley lilies can be arranged along the center of the table, ready for each guest to tuck under her belt at the end of the luncheon. Use salt and peppers at either end of the flowers for a change from the proverbial candle sticks. Fold napkins rectangular with ends under.

WASHINGTON CLEANERS & DYERS, 1109 N. Main. Phone 4944. Dances, card parties, showers, (as usual), and the holidays coming on! How will we ever do all we have to do? Well, there's one way to save ourselves some worry and trouble. Phone 4944. They'll call for all your soiled garments and bring them back looking as fresh as new! And then all you have to do is pop into them. They do excellent work at the WASHINGTON CLEANERS. Or, just have them pressed. It's surprising what a difference a fine pressing job will make in your appearance.

RUTHERFORD'S, 515 E. First. Chilly these nights and mornings? Be comfortable in Kayser's pajamas. RUTHERFORD'S have a nice line of Kayser's $1.00 up. If your hose wear out too fast to suit you, try Allen A. They wear and wear. Their hats are special at $1.95 up. Be sure you have a fall crown this year. Try their Gossard Corsets and "Miss Simplicity's." Notice the trim appearance they give you. At RUTHERFORD'S, where you can always park.

MILITARY BAND

BLU NOTE MUSIC CO. 420 W. Fourth. Phone 2108. Character-building. Enroll your boy now in the PHILLIP'S CRUSADERS BOYS MILITARY BAND. It will overcome timidity in a natural way, give him natural energy a normal outcome, and strengthen his character. Watch for the Crusaders in the Armistice Day parade.

STELLA'S DRESS SHOP & CONNIE'S HAND KNIT SHOP, Arcade Bldg., 515 N. Main. Sale! If you've been in CONNIE'S KNIT SHOP you know what perfectly handsome hand knits that she has. If you haven't, when you go in now you'll understand why we wax on! Some of her hand knit garments are ON SALE. Blue, green, etc. Or, if it's a silk or sport dress that you want, pop into the same shop where you'll discover smart street and sport dresses from STELLA'S DRESS SHOP. Her prices range from $2.95 to $19.95. So you won't be tempted to go over your $20 price limit.

FRANK CURRAN LUMBER CO. 1003 E. Fourth. PHONE 8. Did you know that FRANK CURRAN LUMBER CO., has small cans of Martin-Senour paints for only 10c? They come in a variety of colors—enamels, house paints, etc., for exterior and interior decorating. They have a list of painting contractors to recommend for your job.

RANKINS... Fourth... Sycamore. Once in awhile we simply run out of adjectives. After capturing one of the sales ladies in RANKINS, we did nothing but gasp with adjectives for the remainder of the time we were there. We were in the bag section and saw handbags from the most modest to the most luxurious. Pett-point handbags from $7.50 to $35.00. Jenny bags, bien-davies, and Korat bags. All outstanding and different. Suedes, antelopes, leathers, calf, gabardines, velvet for afternoon and lames, metallics, sequins, kids, rhinestones, for evening. Nothing in all Santa Ana like this selection as far as we know.

ALBERT'S HAIRCUTTING PARLOR, Moore Bldg., Room 208. Phone 311. Albert is back! So you can get your hair cut by an expert once more. ALBERT will cut your hair so it is best suited to your type. Personalized hair-cutting by "none better in town" for a reasonable price. He has been especially trained in the cutting of ladies' hair and does nothing else.

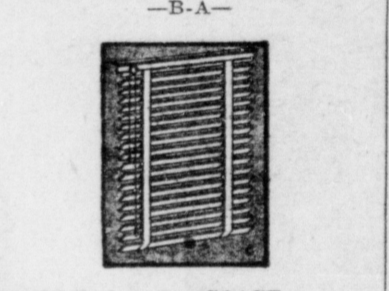

VANDERMAST'S. Fourth and Sycamore. Phoenix socks. VANDERMAST'S have patterns to harmonize with fall suitings. Phoenix gives you something "extra" in sock value. Not only real style and color but "extra mileage" wear. They're 39c and 3 for $1.10. VANDERMAST'S are also featuring new patterns in long wearing, new weave sport anklets.

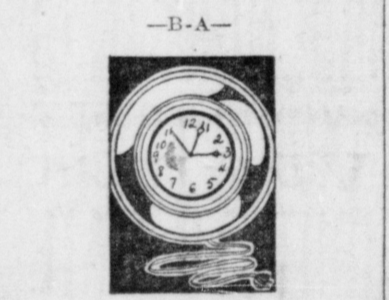

TOMATO JUICE COCKTAIL

Simmer 1 qt. fresh or canned tomatoes for 15 or 20 min. with 2 bay leaves, 6 or 8 cloves, 1 tsp. salt, 2 tsp. sugar and a few grains of pepper. Remove from stove, add 1 tsp. horseradish and 2 tbsps. lemon juice and strain. Chill and serve.

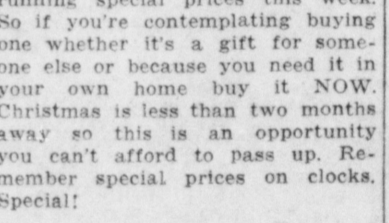

The cloth is the basis of every table arrangement. It should be in keeping with the season and occasion. For a spring breakfast, Mrs. Huttenlocker chooses for a spring breakfast a tulip patterned table cloth, with a bowl of yellow and white tulips at the end of the table if you're serving 3 or 5.

BUILT FOR THE COAST... GOOD ANYWHERE. Venetian blinds are now made in Orange county to specific order... the only factory of its type in Orange county. This is a special invitation to see them made for yourself. Venetians cost the price of drapes and ordinary blinds... at COAST ROYAL VENETIAN BLINDS, 311 Fruit, Phone 5388.

H. R. TROTT, Sycamore at Fifth. Clocks of nearly every description from tiny ones to great big ones can be found at H. R. TROTT'S. Small electric clocks that are reasonably, delicately chimed clocks, wrist watches (not much more than a dot on the wrist), banjo clocks... yes, just all kinds of clocks. MR. TROTT is running special prices this week. So if you're contemplating buying one whether it's a gift for someone else or because you need it in your own home buy it NOW. Christmas is less than two months away so this is an opportunity you can't afford to pass up. Remember special prices on clocks. Special!

PLEA ASSERTS OUTSIDERS ARE ON ARMY CREWS

Complaint of two Orange county surveyors that local men are not being given jobs on the army surveying crews at work on the $15,000,000 flood control project, brought a promise late yesterday for an investigation by the county supervisors.

J. K. Van Rhyne of Costa Mesa, and J. Voess, of Fullerton, reported to the supervisors that of the 15 non-civil service employees on the army surveying crews, only two are residents of Orange county.

They also said that the civil service men do not include any Orange county residents, because local residents have not been given a chance to take the civil service examinations.

Refund of the $3 paid by each of 34 contractors bidding on the Laguna canyon storm drain project for plans of the job, was authorized by the county supervisors late yesterday, after the board had rejected all bids because of right-of-way obstacles in the path of the project. Supervisor Harry D. Riley requested that the plans be returned to the county before refund is made.

Flood Engineer M. N. Thompson expressed belief that there would be no difficulty about getting the plans.

ADVANCES NOT TO BE CHARGED. TRUST RULING

The late W. T. Brown, Fullerton lumberman, did not intend that advances he had made to certain of his heirs bore his death should be charged against their share of a trust estate he created for them by his will, it was decided by the fourth district court of appeals, in reversing a ruling by Superior Judge J. O. Mancour, here, that such advances should be so charged.

The appellate court's decision, just received here, affirms other portions of the judgment by Judge Mancour, Quincy jurist, who presided over the Brown estate litigation, involving a feud between members of the Brown family over administration and distribution of the estate.

Shares in Lumber Firm. The court of appeals, as did Judge Mancour, refused to disqualify Arthur J. Kelley and Lester Breiner, officials of the Brown and Dausner Lumber company, who were made trustees of the W. T. Brown Estate, Inc. Other trustees were the widow, Mrs. Alice Brown, a daughter, Mrs. Katherine McGill, of La Habra, and another daughter, Helen Brown, of Pasadena.

Mrs. Brown and Mrs. McGill sided with Kelley and Breiner in the litigation, Helen Brown joining with another sister, Mrs. Mabel Butler, and a brother, Grant Brown, and wife in objecting to Kelley and Breiner as trustees. Kelley and Breiner as trustees, on the ground that their personal interests conflicted with those of the trust estate. The principal asset of the trust estate was 14,860 shares of the Brown and Dausner Lumber company, which operated several lumber yards and orchards, the total shares being 20,000. Kelley and Breiner each owned 2476 shares, sold to them in 1925 by Brown. Each gave a note for $50,000 in payment, and pledged the shares as security. In addition Kelley had given a $1500 note to the lumber company, while Breiner owed the company $1175 and $2825 in the form of notes, and $800 on a book account. Their own debts to the company brought their interests into conflict with the interests of the trust estate, the objectors contended.

"Implicit Confidence." The appellate court sustained the trial court in overruling such contention, stating that Brown's will indicated that he had "implicit confidence" in his two aides, and had made them trustees of his estate with full knowledge of the facts mentioned. Additional personal charges made against Kelley at a hearing before Judge Mancour in May, 1936, also were rejected by the court.

One ruling of Judge Mancour, however, was reversed by the appellate court. Brown had made advances aggregating about $29,000 to three of the four objecting heirs. When it was shown that their share of the residuary estate, aside from the trust estate he created for them, was less than the advances that had been made to them, Judge Mancour ruled that the excess advances should be deducted from their share of the trust. That ruling was likewise appealed.

The appellate court ruled that the will showed an intention to keep the trust estate intact for the heirs for the ten-year period of its existence, and that, therefore, the excess advances could not be deducted from it. The trial court was ordered to amend its findings in that particular.

Still Coughing?

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with any remedy less potent than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble and aids nature to soothe and heal the inflamed mucous membranes and to loosen and expel the germ-laden phlegm. Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, try Creomulsion. Your druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied with the benefits obtained from the very first bottle. Creomulsion is one word—not two, and it has no hyphen in it. Ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)

HOLLYWOOD—IT MAY BE

hard to get a show on the air, but it's even harder to keep it there.

Option time is blowing wintry blasts up and down the airwaves and two units have already felt the axe.

The Friday Hal Kemp-Allice Faye combination and the Monday Variety Fair variety half-hour.

The ghost of Grand Hotel was the boogie man who puffed and puffed and blew and blew to scatter the hopes of Variety Fair into a whisp of nothing, thus proving beyond a shadow of a doubt that the will of fans is not to be denied. On my desk is an announcement from the sponsor that Grand Hotel will be dug out of the archives, dusted, re-cast and be-glittered for dialers effective this coming Monday.

As this is being written, Chicago studios are all a hustle auditioning leading men and leading ladies for the program. We take it that Anne Seymour, who was as much responsible for Grand Hotel's success as the dramas themselves, is not available. Else why should a star for a leading lady even be considered? Too bad, too bad.

How would you like to receive this in your stocking Christmas Eve?

Services no longer required. That, if present plans are carried out, will be wrapped in cellophane and awaiting Alice Faye and Hal Kemp when they show up for their broadcast December 24. Poor kids, I hope you have a better Christmas.

There seems to be no exceptions to the opinion that the Hollywood edition of this show, while not bad, hasn't matched note for note with the offering that preceded it from New York. Alice Faye found filling Ray Thompson's shoes too tight a squeeze. Miss Faye can't be blamed. There isn't anyone in radio who can match Ray rhythm for rhythm or humor for humor.

One of the department's biggest regrets is that Ray Thompson isn't on the air at present.

Who will replace Kemp? That old daddy of symphonic interpretation, Paul Whiteman, is said to have the contract safely stored away in a deposit vault. We anxiously await further developments.

BOBBY PARADE—

Bobby Green will be heard with Eddie Cantor. However, don't be too heartened, folks. It's just a one-time booking. You'll find Wallington and Renard still determined to crash the movies. (KNX, 8:30)

Deems Taylor, commentator on Andre Kostelanetz's concert series, is faced with a rather difficult assignment. Taylor must comment on his own composition, "Casanova," which Kostel will be playing over the air for the first time. Certainly no spot for a modest man, Luciezia Bori, dear to the hearts of all music lovers, will be soloist. (KNX, 6)

Albert Payson Terhune will talk about dogs during Dave Eiman's Hobby Lobby. We've heard some interesting comments on this program. Do you like it? And I do mean you. (KNX, 7:30)

For the hair-raising stunt of the evening, try Gang Busters' dramatization of two people who were shugged, filled full of lead and left atop an ignited powder magazine to be blown to bits. Fortunately, one, a woman, escaped and lived to help break up the gang responsible. (KNX, 7)

HOW TO HOPE (I HOPE)—

One of the best things about Al Pearce's show is his opening. "I'm 'fraid you're all listenin' in, I hope, I hope, I hope."

It's one of those catch lines which really catch on and is passed around promiscuously until everyone is doing it. Al Pearce is the man of the moment and everyone's I'm hoping all over the place.

Has Al any objections? Not in the least. In fact he rises to the occasion to prove that the phrase may be put to many uses.

"I hope, I hope, I hope," says Al. "Can be used with soul-satisfying results and in cases with impunity after the following remarks:

"You're afraid to punch me in the nose."

"Of course I've got enough money in the bank to cover this check."

"I don't think this gun is loaded."

"I dare you to kiss me."

"You surely aren't going to insist that I take this hundred dollars reward."

"So you listen to the Al Pearce program."

AUTOMOTIVE NEWS

MEXICO READY TO START WORK ON COAST ROAD

Actual construction of the International Pacific Highway in Mexico is about to begin with the announcement that heavy building operations are to start simultaneously on eleven sections of the 1186-mile great west coast route between the United States border and Mexico City.

This was the statement made by Carlos V. Ariza, secretary of the Mexican central committee working in behalf of the highway, to officials of the Automobile Club of Southern California upon a visit to the club headquarters.

Bonds have been issued and contracts signed by the States of Sonora, Sinaloa, Nayarit and Jalisco. The program is the direct result of the international conference held early this year at Mazatlan in which the Automobile Club of Southern California representatives participated.

Last year 20,000 cars from the United States traveled into Mexico. This number was exceeded during the first eight months of 1937, principally due to publicity given the improved east coast route to Mexico City from Laredo, Texas. With the completion of the west coast route, trail-blazed by the motor club in 1930, American motorists will be afforded an incomparable circle tour through a foreign land. The west coast route will enter Mexico at Nogales, Arizona.

Work on the international highway, eventually to extend from Alaska to Argentina, is progressing in Central America, U. S.

OPEN ROAD ON ARMISTICE DAY

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 3.—(UP)

—The new Pedro Mountain Link of the Ocean Shore highway between San Francisco and Santa Cruz will be opened Armistice Day, Colonel J. H. Skeggs, district engineer of the State Highway Department, said today.

"There will be no celebration or dedication," Colonel Skeggs added. "It will be just a routine opening, and we will let it go at that."

When completed, the new highway will provide a fast route between San Francisco and Santa Cruz will be opened Armistice the fertile coastal region to market their produce more easily.

The Pedro mountain link is six miles long. Cost was approximately $375,000, of which San Francisco contributed $51,000, San Mateo county $24,000, Santa Cruz $48,000, and the state $250,000.

The link includes two miles of the right of way of the old Ocean Shore railway. It avoids the railway tunnel, however, going around instead of through Pedro mountain.

CHRYSLER CORP. IS NAMED IN CHARGE

DETROIT, Nov. 3.—(UP)—A complaint against the Chrysler Corporation charging violation of the Wagner Labor Relations Act was filed with the Detroit NLRB office yesterday by the United Automobile Workers union.

The complaint, drawn by Larry S. Davidow, UAW attorney, names the Independent Association of Chrysler Employees an organization which the UAW charges is a company union.

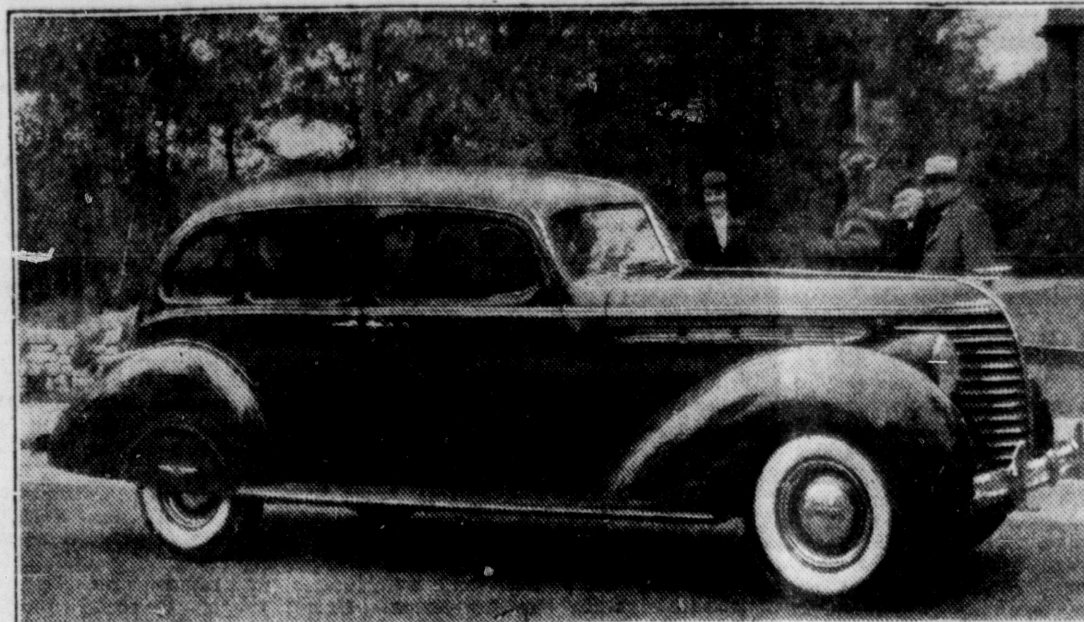

A fight between members of the association and the UAW last August 4 resulting in a shutdown of Chrysler's Plymouth plant for several days.

Chrysler officials here said they had not been advised as yet of the formal complaint and its charges.

JIMMIE FIDLER IN HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 3.—Took a supercilious visitor from New York on a studio tour today and stopped at Universal to watch the filming of thrill scenes for a current "horse opera." The visiting fireman, who had been very snooty about everything else, presumably because it had not originated at 42nd Street and Broadway, did a bit of plain and fancy sneering at the hard working riders on the location and finally referred to them as "drug store cowboys." I burned.

Eighty per cent of the punchers working in Hollywood's westerns learned to ride horseback before they could walk. Most of them earned their living as youngsters by riding range and only came to Hollywood because of the great depression in the cattle business. One of the hands on that location, this morning, was Bill Patton, an ex-star. He is also an ex-Tex Ranger, an ex-rodex champion and an ex-soldier of Villa's army. He used to run guns across the Rio Grande for diversion, and was once captured by Mexican Rurales and sentenced to be shot.

The twenty per cent of non-westerners in the screen's ride-em and rope-em dramas are actors needed to handle the leading roles. But please note that most of the outstanding stars—Ken Maynard, Buck Jones, and Hoot Gibson, for instance—were fighting for rodeo championships long before they ever heard of moving pictures. My visitor from New York would have a very unpleasant experience if he called one of those gentlemen a drug store cowboy. Hollywood's most authentic article is its typical puncher.

You hear much about the hardships of Hollywood's extras and it is true that they have a tough time of it. But the fact remains that most of them are improvisers, never-do-wells who throw their money away when they have a run of luck and refuse to give a thought to the inevitable lean periods that punctuate their hazardous lives. Many of them find salvation in a very expensive form, through their fondness for jewelry. When they are flush, they buy watches, rings and bracelets that have cash loan value in Hollywood's many pawn shops. If you are a veteran Hollywoodite, you can always tell by the articles displayed in movie windows, just how heavy the demand for extras has been.

Had lunch with Wallace Beery today and almost forgot to eat my sandwich in my amazement at the enormous quantity of food that disappeared down the Beery gullet. Soup, salad, sea-food cocktail, pie a-la-mode and, in between, a haunch of rare roast beef that would have gorged a hungry lion. With the last bite safely stored away, Wally leaned back with a sigh of satisfaction. "I'll probably suffer for eating that lunch," he beamed, "but it's worth it. You know, life's a funny proposition. When I was working on a section gang, swinging a pick and shovel all day, I couldn't afford a meal like that. Now that I can afford it, I don't get enough exercise to handle it right. Yes sir, life's like that."

Every year, Charles Chaplin recedes further and further into his shell. It used to be a common sight to see him dining and dancing at the Cocoanut Grove, or sitting in one of the Boulevard cafes with a few cronies, chatting far into the wee, small hours of the morning. But, in the past year or two, he has abandoned all of his old haunts and now lives like a hermit in his secluded hillside home. The mainstays of his production crew, most of whom have worked with him for fifteen years or more, still drop in at the Chaplin Studios once a week and pick up their pay checks, but a camera crank has not turned in the studio since the last scene was shot for "Modern Times." There have been vague reports, from time to time, that Charlie plans to produce another picture, but most of his employees frankly predict that he is "through." With him in his hermit-like existence is Paul, ette Goddard. She looked like a bet for stardom, but Hollywood has almost forgotten her now. A strange moody man is Charles Spencer Chaplin.

Heard an amusing story about Jane Withers today. Seems that Jane went into a big studio luncheon. As she entered the cafe, one of the other guests stopped her

URGE "SECOND FOR SAFETY"

Pointing to the fact that the peak of pedestrian fatalities on California streets and highways occurs during the winter months, the state Department of Motor Vehicles has issued a timely warning to all who walk to "take a second for safety" before crossing a vehicle thoroughfare.

Speaking for Director Ray Ingels and the department, Inspector W. R. Sharkey Jr., of the California Highway Patrol said:

"This warning is issued in the hope that it will reduce the pedestrian toll during the remaining weeks of 1937."

While the slogan "a second for safety" is directed to the pedestrian, the warning is equally applicable to the motorist who must co-operate in keeping down the pedestrian toll.

Analysis of 1936 pedestrian fatalities showed 1,203 killed and brought out the startling revelation that of this number 931 were men and only 272 women. Of the 9,546 pedestrians injured during the same year 6,325 were men and 3,190 women.

Highest number of fatalities classified as to age groups occurred among those between 60 and 69 with 254 killed in that age group.

By contrast, the highest number injured in any age group was among children 9 years old or younger. In this group 1,690 were injured out of the year's total of 9,546.

The hourly peak for pedestrian accidents, in common with all other traffic accidents, occurs between 5 and 6 o'clock in the evening.

CALIFORNIANS HEAL TOURING LIST OF 1937

Californians again led the motor touring parade during the 1937 vacation year. This was revealed in a tabulation of National Bank Service figures for the year ending September 30 made by the touring bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

While visitors from other states flocked to California and established a banner tourist year, residents of this State were out on the open road to set a few travel records of their own, with the exception of the Pacific Northwest, where they were second to home visitors, Californians outnumbered vacationists from other states in the National Parks of the West.

At Yellowstone National Park 13,868 California cars registered to take first place away from the home states of Montana, Idaho and Wyoming. Golden State vacationists led at Zion, Bryce and Grand Canyon National Parks.

More than 15,000,000 persons visited the national parks and monuments this year, a 26 per cent increase over 1936, according to Federal figures. The most popular playground in the nation was Shenandoah National Park in Virginia where 1,941,394 visitors registered.

Rocky Mountain National Park was the most popular in the West with 651,899 visitors. Yellowstone was second with 499,242, and Yosemite third with 481,492.

San Diego was the third most popular national monument among the 68 in the nation, being exceeded only by the Statue of Liberty and Fort Marion in Florida.

FIRED-UP DON'S IN YEAR'S BEST WORKOUT

The PAYOFF

BY HARRY GRAYSON
(Sports Editor, NEA Service)

In acquiring Tony Lazzeri, Philip K. Wrigley only adds to the Chicago Cubs' confusion and payroll. Had Lazzeri been named manager, the deal for his services would make sense.

But enacting such an established star in the sure and yellow of his career as coach and utility infielder, particularly one who openly voices managerial aspirations, doesn't figure to end any of the factional fights that have torn both the business and playing departments of the Cub organization.

How would you feel if you were Charley Grimm?

What would be the reaction of your players?

It generally is suspected that the Cub command before another campaign comes to a close. The customers have soured on the old first-baseman to such an extent that close observers say he can't possibly last.

Wrigley has said that when a present Lazzeri's appointment. The large backstop has been around a year longer than Signor Tony, and is thinking of his own future. Hartnett turned in a splendid job of bossing the Cubs while Grimm was relegated to the sidelines by that back ailment last summer. His name was prominently mentioned when there was talk of Bill Terry giving his entire attention to the Giant's front office, again in connection with Brooklyn, and once more before Casey Stengel landed with the Boston Bees.

The 34-year-old Lazzeri may still be good for a year or two of good part-time second basing, but the Cubs have one of the finest second sackers in the league in Billy Herman. The latter and his shortstop partner, Billy Jurges, have their own ideas of how the Cubs should be run, by the way.

What Philip K. Wrigley should do is adopt the more practical policy of his father, William change was made an outsider would be brought in. What outsider would be better qualified than Lazzeri, the veteran with the trigger baseball brain who helped the New York Yankees to six pennants in 12 years?

"Now just what will I do with him?" Owner-President Philip K. Wrigley, left, of the Chicago Cubs, appears to be asking himself as Tony Lazzeri signs as coach and utility infielder. The supposition is that the erstwhile veteran star of the New York Yankees is headed for the management of the Bruins.

Before Wrigley thought of Lazzeri, much of the Cubs' trouble could be traced to the multiple of Cub officials.

Wrigley is too important and busy a man to devote too much time to baseball, so he has a personal representative in Charles Drake, John O. Seys, grizzled vice-president, doesn't hit it off any too well with Drake. Charles (Boots) Weber is business manager, and Robert C. Lewis is traveling secretary.

Clarence (Pants) Rowland, who guided the White Sox to a world title in 1917, is to have more of a voice in assembling talent, Pants was at the last world's series, speaking with plenty of authority. Now comes the highly competent Lazzeri to fill a role that is a bit vague, to say the least.

Where Grimm formerly looked up and saw only one gent, Gabby Hartnett, who would be vastly more popular at the helm than himself, he now will see two.

Hartnett is another who may

Wrigley installed a sound baseball man, Bill Veek, as president. He permitted him to boss the works, and as a reward saw his entry climb from the cellar to the top and to records for attendance and receipts which still stand.

William Wrigley's one big mistake in baseball was in letting Joe McCarthy take to make room for Rogers Hornsby.

He made this move against the advice of Veek.

McCarthy gave Wrigley everything but a world championship, but that apparently wasn't enough. The chewing gum magnate demanded a manager who could go all the way.

McCarthy was kicked upstairs to the New York Yankees—two or three days before the close of the campaign of 1930, and save for a few fleeting weeks in 1932 and 1935, baseball player deals and field management since have been quite a problem to the Wrigley interests.

More skillful direction might easily have prevented the blow-ups which have occurred in four of the last five years.

What the Cubs need is centralized authority and a couple of blokes who can swat the onion in the pinches.

56 SUSPENDED FOR ROWDYISM AT GRID GAME

PHOENIX, Ariz.—Supt. E. W. Montgomery of Phoenix union high school said today he suspended 56 students for "rowdyism and unsportsmanlike conduct" following a football game with Tucson high school here Oct. 22.

The students, suspended for periods "long enough to provide proper punishment," hurled stones, rotten tomatoes and green apples and fired one bullet at a special train carrying victorious Tucson players and students home. Earlier, Phoenix police had been called to quell near riots in several areas.

The incident resulted in indefinite severance of athletic relations between the two schools.

SET DATES FOR S. A. CLUB GOLF

Qualifying rounds for the 1937 men's championship golf tournament begin at the Santa Ana Country club this weekend.

Roy Renwick, pro, announces that 18-hole tests will be conducted through November 14, giving members two weekends to turn in cards. The first 32 low qualifiers will move into the championship flight, he said, with lower flights being composed of the same number of players. Actual competition starts the week of Nov. 15.

Jack Robertson of Huntington Beach is the defending titlist. He ended Dick Ewert's two-year reign in the 1936 event.

Mrs. J. L. McFadden and Mrs. Harry Bakke tied for first place in a women's rinker tournament that closed yesterday after three months of competition. Mrs. McFadden's card was 67-1-66 and Mrs. Bakke's 68-2-66.

An even-hole tourney, played at one-half handicap, went to Mrs. E. E. Bakke, 41-7-34. Next were Mrs. Don Andrews, 45-10-35, and Mrs. P. H. McVicar, 42-6-35.

YANKS SERIES 'CUT' AMOUNTS TO $6471

CHICAGO—Kenesaw M. Landis, baseball commissioner, said today the world's champion New York Yankees got $6471 apiece for winning the world series, while individual members of the New York Giants got $4489.

The Detroit Tigers, who finished second in the American league, got $1188 apiece, while the Chicago Cubs got a total of $1670 each for their share of the world series and the Chicago city series.

Other individual shares were: Chicago White Sox, third in American league—$1302 for world's series and city series which they won.

Pittsburgh Pirates, third in National league—$810.

Cleveland, fourth in American league—$443.

St. Louis Cardinals, fourth in National league—$412.

GEN WINNER OVER AU CHU MAH IN L. A.

LOS ANGELES—Boxing gloves were used in settling one international conflict last night and Gen. Yen, Japanese featherweight champion, won a close decision from Au Chu Mah, son of a Chinese laundryman, in a 10-round bout at Olympic auditorium.

Gen's advantage was in the fourth round when he scored the only knockdown of the fight with a left hook to the chin. Mah was back on his feet at the count of one, and took three of the remaining rounds.

OSC's Beavers Caught 'Em All Napping This Time

Officials and Stanford players all were caught napping on this play at Palo Alto. Duncan (52), Oregon State halfback, intercepted a Stanford pass in midfield but on three tries failed to gain. On fourth down Duncan faked a kick and ran to first down for the bright spot of a rain spattered 0-0 tie. Fay (34), Stanford, ran Duncan out of bounds.

PLAN ANNUAL REUNION OF OLDTIME SAINT GRIDERS

Memories are precious and so a principal of Santa Ana hl, was knocked into a state of mental unrest in a game at Pasadena, and had to be led gently away from there. It was not until days later that he was himself again.

"Stew" Stewart remembered when the Walnut-Pickers (as the Saints then were dubbed in print) played in Los Angeles and were protested volubly by the opposition when they lined up for the first scrimmage.

"Look at those guys," said the city boys to the referee. "They've got their fingers painted. Somethin' dirty going on here." The official investigating, discovered that the "country boys" from Santa Ana merely had walnut-stain on their hands.

"Almost every man on our team came from families that grew walnuts," recalled Stewart. "And football season came right along with walnut picking."

Ray Marsile got a chuckle out of his story about a game in San Diego. In those days the officialing was done by volunteers, one from each team. "Blick" Muller was a member of the San Diego squad and his father was appointed referee. "Jug" Walters, a venerable Santa Ana, was named umpire.

"Muller started plastering on penalties right after the kickoff," said Marsile, and "they were all right in there pitching for the Saints. Every penalty Muller called was matched by one against San Diego that Walters exacted. There was a penalty after almost every play. It was historic."

Five of those present were members of one of Santa Ana's first Southern California championship squads, the 1914 outfit coached by Walter Hall, now director athletics at Chaffey jaycee. Six made the trip to Phoenix, Ariz. in 1916, which was the only out-of-state jaunt ever made by Santa Ana high school.

On the Phoenix team was a halfback named Frank Luke, who later became a famous figure in the World War as an aviator.

Successful Running Attack Sets Stage For Gains In Air

By JOCK SUTHERLAND (Pittsburgh's Head Coach)

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 3.—A foot-work to be done in getting blockers out of the line and teaching them to drop back to the places where they can protect the passer. We also must take into consideration the fact that the other team is going to have the ball, so we must prepare to stop their passes.

Bushing end and tackles are our chief defense against passes. They have done such a grand job that a passer has been able to do against Pitt thus far this season, with two or three exceptions, is barely get the ball away.

There will be times when passers will have time to get the ball away properly, however, and then our secondary must be in the right bone for the right man.

Long Passes Are Risky When Passer Is Hurried

Facing alert safety men who are good open-field runners and ball-handlers, it is dangerous to throw long passes unless the passer has plenty of time. The first pass thrown against us this fall resulted in a touchdown—or in a seventh place tie by a win over Onofrio Lauro of Brooklyn, N.Y., 125 to 49.

LOS ANGELES—More than 200,000 boys and girls attended Pacific Coast league baseball games during 1937, President W. C. Tuttle said today. CALL 'WHIZZER' NO. 1 BACK OF 1937 FOOTBALL

BY HENRY MOLEMORE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

BOULDER, Colo.—Here in the land of the eternal snows they are making an eternal fuss about a young man with the rather unusual name of "Whizzer" White.

"Whizzer," who was christened Byron, quarterback the undefeated, untied, and almost unscathed upon University of Colorado football team, and has definitely displaced Pike's Peak, Estes Park and Buffalo Bill's final resting place, even, as the state's outstanding attraction.

He's in the headlines more than Roosevelt, and declarations that he is the greatest football player in the country are more common than silver dollars. There are many critics who rate him as better than Earl ("Dutch") Clark, the fellow who went from Colorado college to become the standout performer in the professional ranks.

Third Among U. S. Scorers

I came here to take a look at him and was besieged with stories of his prowess. How he played but nine minutes last Saturday, but found that sufficient time to score 21 points and take third place among the nation's leading scorers with 62 points. How he would have already scored well above 100 points this year were he not an unselfish fellow and refused to call his own signal when the ball was in scoring position. Time and again he has carried the ball almost the length of the field and then called the number of Fullback Ervin Cheney for the scoring plunge. Cheney has 42 points to his credit.

One of Whizzer's big days came last year in the game with Utah, when he performed the following feats:

Kicked out of bounds on Utah's 4-yard line and then returned Utah's return punt 38 yards for a touchdown.

Kicked out of bounds on Utah's 3-yard line and again lugged back the return punt for a score.

Went 38 yards off-tackle for a touchdown.

Took the kick-off that opened the third period and gawgled 90 yards for a fourth touchdown. And all of this on a snow-covered field that offered insecure footing.

Oh yes, he also threw a 50-yard pass that was good for another score.

Kicks and Passes Too

Whizzer does all the kicking and passing for Colorado, and most of the running. And he is strictly a 60-minute performer when his services are needed.

And he's not only a football player. He is all-conference third baseman in baseball, and all-conference basketball guard.

Moreover, he is the best student on the campus. This I learned from none other than President George Norlin.

"Whizzer has never dropped below A in any of his studies. He is certain to make Phi Beta Kappa, and next month will try for a Rhodes scholarship," President Norlin said. "He is the busiest man on the campus, what with working his way through school by waiting table at a fraternity house, and serving as president of the student body."

Between halves of the Utah game last year President Norlin said he visited the team's dressing room and found Whizzer stretched out on a rubber table—studying his calculus.

DENY SHAW TO REPLACE JONES

LOS ANGELES—Denials today met reports from Santa Clara that Coach Lawrence (Buck) Shaw of the Broncos might replace Howard Jones at University of Southern California.

"It's news to me," said President R. B. Van Klesmild of U. S. C. "Mr. Jones' work has always been satisfactory."

Willis O. Hunter, athletic director, also denied the report. He said, "I certainly would know it if we were after a new coach. No change is being considered."

Coach Jones' contract expires this year and some alumni have been dissatisfied with the Trojan record.

GREENLEAF ON WAY TO 16TH CUE TITLE

PHILADELPHIA—Ralph Greenleaf of Bozman, Md., defending titlist, led a stellar field of cue artists in a stellar field of cue sport pocket billiards tournament today with four victories and no defeats.

The 15-time Champion observed his 38th birthday anniversary by vanquishing Charles (Chick) Seaback of Lawrence, Mass., also a former champion, 125 to 37.

Andrew Ponzi defeated his fellow Philadelphian, George Kelly, 125 to 60 in seven innings.

Marcel Camp, young Detroit ace, took advantage of the spotty shooting of Joe Diehl of Rockford, Ill., to score a 125 to 87 triumph.

Jimmy Caras of Wilmington, Del., 1935 titlist, went into a seventh place tie by a win over Onofrio Lauro of Brooklyn, N.Y., 125 to 49.

SANTA SOPHS TO HAVE 'CIVIL WAR' GAME

Santa Ana high school's crack Sophomore eleven, which can clinch the Citrus Belt league championship by tying or defeating San Bernardino in its next start (Nov. 18) draws a bye in the conference for the next two weeks.

ALLISON FEARS BEARS STALE; PRACTICE OFF

LOYOLA GIRDS FOR CONTEST WITH ARIZONA

TUCSON, Ariz. — The University of Arizona football team will leave tonight for Los Angeles to play the Loyola Lions in Gilmore stadium Friday night.

Coach "Tex" Oliver, still bemoaning the crippled condition of several players, admitted he held some hope of victory after the Wildcats' victory over the New Mexico Aggies last Saturday.

The Wildcats have been working on perfection of an aerial attack and several new running plays.

LOS ANGELES—Lions of Loyola, having lost four games by the slim margin of one touchdown, buckled down this week to the shortest but most intensive practice of the 1937 season. Coach Tom Lieb's men, who meet University of Arizona here Friday night at Gilmore stadium, must crowd an entire week of preparation into three days.

After a complete rest, Monday, following their Sabbath defeat by the San Francisco Dons, the Loyolans' program called for defensive work against Arizona plays and scrimmage against Billy Byrne's Fresh today and a general tuning up Thursday. That did not give Lion Tamer Lieb much time for an "overhauling job" if necessary.

INDIAN 'GUESS TEAM' DUE IN SOUTH FRIDAY

By DON LIEBENDORFER

(Stanford Publicity Director)

LOS ANGELES — Stanford's "guess what they will do next boys" arrive here Friday morning to take on the Southern California Trojan football team in the Coliseum Saturday.

The Redskin eleven has been an enigma since the opening of the season when it dropped close decisions to Santa Clara and Oregon. Conceded little chance against U.C.L.A. the following week, the Stanford's Bruins and followed that victory with an equally unexpected win over Washington. Opinion was very evenly divided as to the Indians' chances against Oregon State and that one came out true to form—0-0.

Nothing that has happened to the young and ambitious Redskins this year made them any madder than their failure to get a single point against the Beavers. The performance didn't exactly please "Tiny" Thornhill, either, and the Stanford party is coming to Southern California football-conscious.

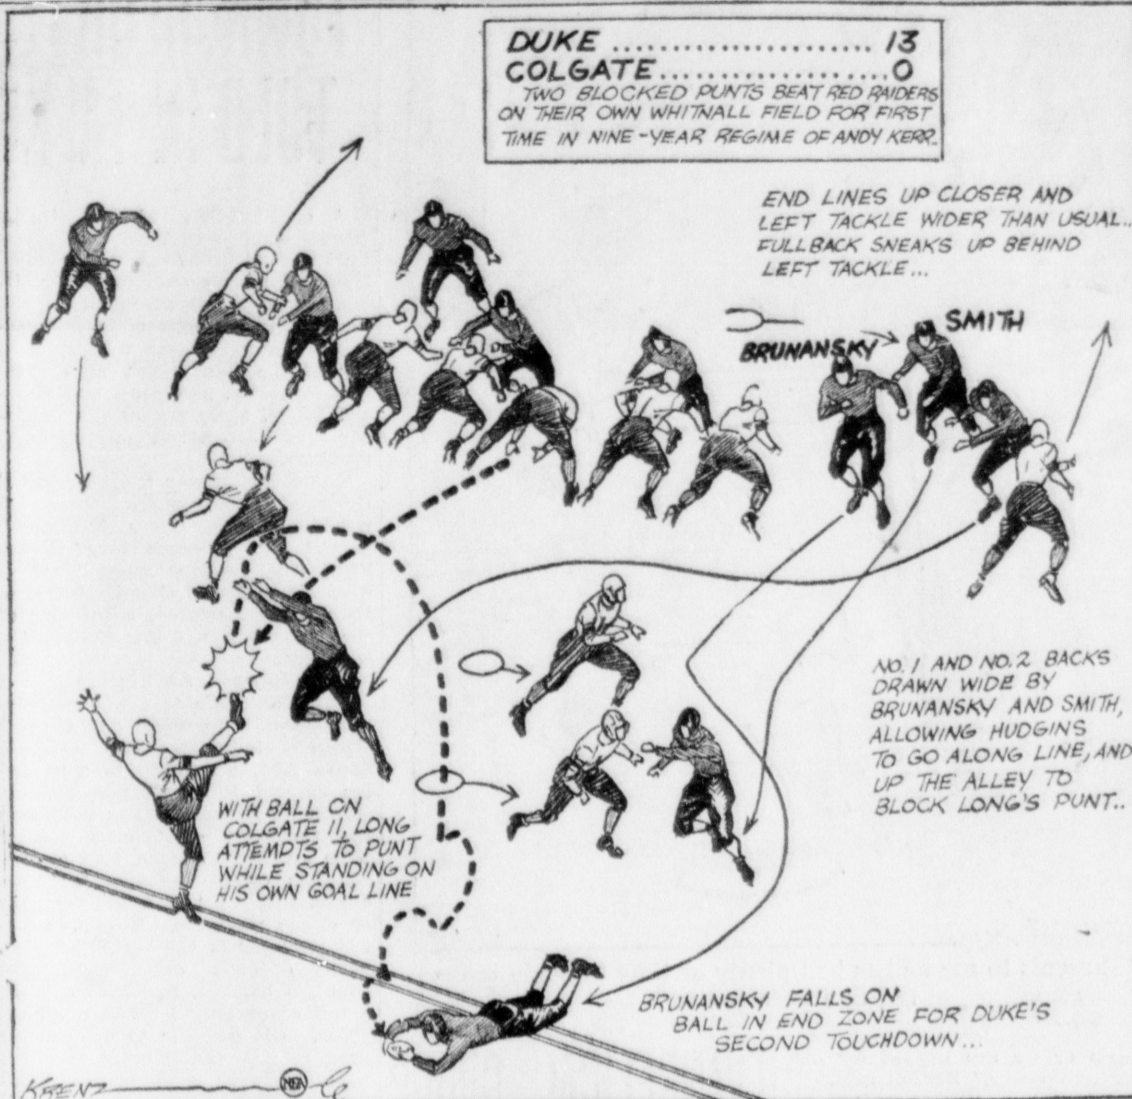

Pete Fay, "Twinkletons" of the Cardinal squad, has earned his first starting assignment and will open at left half in place of Jimmy Coffie against Southern California. Fay, according to Stanford supporters, is as fine a running back as Los Angeles will see this year. He averaged five yards per carry against Oregon State when yards were not easy to get and played a fine all-around game. His punting has been nothing short of sensational.

Coffie is only one of five 1936 Stanford regulars who will be sitting on the sidelines at kick-off time. The others are Joe Vigna, Jake Brigham, Louis Tsoutsouvas and Bob Matthews. In Vigna's place at right half will be the sensational Fred Ledebor, who does everything well. Brigham's old fullback post will be occupied by Jim Groves, one of the hardest-hitting fullbacks in the west and without a superior on defense. Tony Calveili, who played fullback last year, has ousted Tsoutsouvas from the center position. Calveili is strong on defense.

In Matthews' right guard spot is

DUKE PLANS TO BLOCK PUNTS—SUCCEEDS TWICE TO DEFEAT COLGATE

BOTTARI OUT OF CONFLICT WITH HUSKIES

BERKELEY—Fearing his new "wonder team" was overworked and growing tired, Coach "Stub" Allison, of California, indicated that today's regular scrimmage would be called off.

The past two Saturdays the Golden Bears have gone against heavier clubs in Southern California and U. C. L. A. and the men need rest before the Washington game this weekend, Allison said.

The California coach announced he had no intention of starting his star halfback, Vic Bottari, against Washington unless Bottari is in first class shape. The Italian speedster has been injured three times this season, the last time against U. C. L. A.

"Mushy" Pollock, fastest man on the California squad; Wilbur Ingram, ace passer and Ted Hubert, power artist, will alternate at the left halfback post if Bottari does not play. On present form Ingram probably will get the starting assignment.

The Huskies were en route south from Seattle today and will arrive in Oakland tonight. They plan to leave immediately for Pleasanton, where they will make their headquarters until game-time.

Although Washington's record has been none too impressive this season, Allison has warned his unbeaten untied California eleven to regard the game most seriously.

Coach Jimmy Phelan has been under newspaper and alumni fire in Seattle and his eleven is expected to prove more dangerous because of the criticism.

FROM THE RANKS

Jim Asbell, Army Captain and tackle, is the first former enlisted man ever to lead a cadet eleven.

EDUCATORS DEFEND $2.17 SCHOOL TAX RATE

HENDERSON AND PASADENA HEAD SPEAK AT CLUB

Rising in defense of the school administration expenses and in explanation of the sharp rise in the tax rates in Santa Ana from $1.74 last year to $2.17 this year, Frank Henderson, city superintendent of schools, yesterday told the Santa Ana Rotary club that "Santa Ana's administration costs are the lowest in this part of the state in proportion to the size of the city."

"Much of the costs that have caused the rise in the tax rate have come through the erection of new buildings for the elementary schools and for a much needed auditorium for the Julia Lathrop junior high school," Henderson said.

Tells of Necessity
"In considering the tax rate we must keep in mind that various communities have varying appropriations per child, ranging from $19,000 per child in the schools to $55,000 per child," Henderson said, "and the necessity of higher rates is obvious."

Henderson, program chairman of yesterday's meeting, then introduced John A. Saxon, superintendent of Pasadena schools and president of the California Teachers' association, who was the principal speaker of the day.

Using a technological report of a Congressional committee of scientists as his proof, Saxon told the club that "planning in the light of conditions that we know are coming to civilization is the greatest single need of the country today."

Cites Education Needs

"In the report of scientists, not educators, we find the statement that 'training and education of all citizens must be double that of today's or we are headed for disaster and chaos," Saxon said.

"In 1890 the average student received 300 days of education during his life. At present the average is about 1200 days of education, and if we are to exist under the technological age and preserve our form of government this average must be stepped up to at least 2400 days," Saxon said.

L. L. Hurst announced the Federal Music project concert to be held Thursday and introduced Georgia Belle Walton, who played two violin solos, accompanied by Mrs. Dolly Paige Harper.

Beverly Short, Betty Haynes, and Mary McDougall, at trio from Julia Lathrop junior high school, accompanied by Dag Stover, club pianist, sang several musical numbers.

NOTED PERSONS TO BE JUDGES AT FULLERTON

Many persons of national prominence are included in the list of parade leaders and judges announced today by Manager A. G. Cooke of the annual Orange County Armistice Day Celebration, to be held this year at Fullerton. Harry Suters is chairman of the committee making the selections.

Grand Marshal of the parade will be Gene Autry, motion picture star famed as "the singing cowboy," and his aides are Mrs. Ralph McBeth of Long Beach and Sheriff Logan Jackson. Judges will be:

ANALYZE YOUR TOWN, CLUB IS TOLD IN TALKS

A continuation of the theme, "Know Your Own Town" suggested by National Business and Professional Women's club for the various organizations affiliated with it, resulted in an extremely interesting program for this week's meeting of the Santa Ana club when Rex Kennedy, president, and Howard Wood, secretary of the Chamber of commerce, were guest speakers.

The occasion was a dinner in the Doris Kathryn, where the club president, Mrs. Laura McNaught, turned the program over to the legislative action committee of which Miss Mabel Cole is chairman. Miss Alma Karlsson, a member of the committee, introduced the speakers.

Amazed At Figures

Rex Kennedy's talk was more or less general, pointing out the 200 different industries that exist in Santa Ana, according to a payroll for several thousand persons. As secretary, Howard Wood continued the theme, the Business Women were amazed to learn that Orange county's citrus industry furnishes one-eighth of the world's supply of citrus products. That this citrus industry is the basis for prosperity of each city within the county's borders, and that only by a full co-operation between all the cities, is it possible to achieve the best results individually and collectively, were some of the points brought out.

Two former active members of the club, Mrs. Ruth Taylor Scudder and Miss Mabel Wiseman, were among guests introduced.

EVANGELICAL GROUP TO GIVE PROGRAM

Three special evangelical services, led by Evangelist Mrs. Helen Olsen of Minot, N. D., and members of her party, will be held at the Full Gospel Assembly church, 1600 West Third, tonight, tomorrow night and Friday night, the Rev. Ernest L. Friend, pastor of the church, announced today. Programs begin at 7:30 p. m.

The public is invited. The Rev. Charles Coon, member of the evangelist's party, will present a series of songs and, on the piano-accompaniment, a group of musical numbers.

FIREMAN BREAKS ARM

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Nov. 3.—Alvin (Mickey) Rafferty, member of the Huntington Beach fire department, is nursing a broken arm. He suffered a triple fracture of the left arm when he stumbled and fell on the city hall lawn on his way home to his dinner. No one will be named to fill his place during his absence of five or more weeks.

BREAKFASTEERS TO HEAR TROUBADORS

Jack Sántica, bass soloist, and La Hacienda troubadours with Saldana Gamboa as soloist, will furnish music for the regular meeting of the Santa Ana Breakfast club at 7:30 a. m. tomorrow at the Main cafeteria.

Bob Andrews, of the Brooks Clothing company, sponsors of the program, will be in charge of the meeting and will introduce the talent.

WE, THE PEOPLE

By JAY FRANKLIN

HOOVER AND THE REPUBLICAN PARTY

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Former President Hoover's Boston speech made a vigorous attack on what he called the New Deal's "creeping collectivism" but did nothing to cure the creeping paralysis which afflicts the Republican party.

After the second Roosevelt tidal-wave election in 1936, there were several theories of what the stricken G.O.P. should do to keep the flag flying, with the dollar-marks instead of stars.

First was the "conquered people" theory. This held that the 17,000,000 Landonites—with their small representation in the congress—should open a Republican embassy at Washington to maintain diplomatic relations with the White House and voluntarily assume the status of "wards of the United States," like Indian tribes and unreconstructed rebels. A Republican lobby was also to be created, a pressure-group like the Chamber of commerce, to protect the interests of those who had been crushed at the polls. This was rejected after serious consideration.

Second came the theory advanced that the Republican opposition should transfer itself from legislative action to the federal courts. These powerful agencies of political and economic autocracy were to fight a rear-guard action against the New Deal's good-tempered "revolution." President Roosevelt's direct attack on the supreme court took the steam out of this proposal, since the Republicans, being in a weak minority in congress, dared not make a party issue of judicial reform and were compelled to stand aside, in anguished silence, while the New Dealers carved out a big salient in the powers of the judiciary to oppose national reform.

The same operation also made a mockery of the theory that the Republicans should form "His Majesty's Loyal Opposition" and contribute ripe experience, learned criticism and patriotic debate to the life of the nation. In order to delay reform of the judiciary and other New Deal measures designed to broaden and deepen American democracy, the Republicans had to act as a balance of power group in congress, allowing the public leadership in their fight to thwart democracy to be taken by the "Republicans" of the Democratic party. While it was an open secret that the strategy of the court fight was directed by Senator Borah, he was compelled to pull strings in the background rather than create a public record of effective opposition in the parliamentary sense.

Early last winter, however, it was obvious to the New Dealers that the most effective move of the big business interests would be to buy up enough of the national legislature to block progressive action in congress. That method had long been traditional in state and cure the creeping paralysis which Mr. Roosevelt an opportunity—via foreign affairs and his budget-balancing talk—to tack to the right and thus create a lee in the shelter of which Democratic party lines in the south could be repaired and the labor groups hold a peace conference.

Mr. Hoover is not the only Republican to rebel at the conservative strategy. He abdicated personal ambition in order to feel free to urge a mid-term convention of the G.O.P. to consider ways and means, but he offered not outline of policy, no principles by which such a convention could appeal effectively to the sovereign voters.

For the Republicans are still lashed to the shattered mast of their past affiliation and all that they can offer is a proposal to relieve the wealthy taxpayers of their public obligations and to set big business free to continue its untrammeled exploitation of our people and resources which is the Tory definition of "liberty." We've voted down that program, three times running in the last five years.

POPULARITY OF STATE AS PLACE OF BIRTH REVEALED

California is more popular as a place to be born in than as a place to die, according to a report just issued by the United States census bureau.

Compilation of the report has just been completed. It covers the year 1935, and shows that 21,035 babies were born in California during the year whose mothers were residents of other states. On the other hand, only 14,132 residents of other areas went to California to die, the report shows.

Death came to 553 Californians during the year, while they were outside their native state. To parents who were Californians, 242 babies were born in other states during the same year.

The total number of babies born during the year whose mothers were residents of California, regardless of where the babies were born, was 80,124, while the total number of deaths of California residents during the year, wherever dying, was 71,717, the report shows.

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 3. — That Chicago professor is right that there's too much emphasis on college football. When things are given their proper values, we'll have sports stories like this:

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — A huge crowd turned out today to witness the Massachusetts Rhodes scholars taking their exams. Police estimated the mob at 40,000, many of whom were beautiful girls in expensive fur coats and wearing chrysanthemums.

PASADENA, Calif. — Ohio Horticultural College and Texas Floral Institute have been invited to send variety exhibits of flowers to the "Tournament of Roses" here next New Year's Day. The football feature of this annual event has been dropped on account of waning interest and competitions in five more species of roses have been added in its stead.

NEW HAVEN, Conn. — The Yale-Princeton football game, scheduled for 2 p. m. Nov. 20, has been set back to 3:45 p. m. in order not to interfere with the lecture on "Bird Life in Upper Canada" early Saturday afternoon. The move was made on account of the large number of football tickets turned back by students when they learned of the conflict with Prof. Gwiddie's lecture.

CHORUS OF FARM BUREAU TO PRESENT NUMBERS AT STATE CONVENTION OF FEDERATION

On to Modesto for the annual convention of the California Farm Bureau federation is the present goal of the Orange County Farm Bureau chorus, which is rehearsing each week now under the direction of Monroe Sharpless, instructor at the Fullerton junior college. The new group is preparing a program of choral numbers to be presented during the convention beginning November 15 in the northern city.

Groups to Combine
The local chorus will combine with similar groups from other county farm bureaus to make a total of some 300 voices on the Tuesday evening program of the convention.

The local chorus rehearses every Monday at the music hall of the Anaheim Union High school. Lyman Harpster, Anaheim, was recently elected president of the chorus. William Ritter, Tustin, vice president; Henry Klaus, Anaheim, secretary and librarian; and Rose Stanfield, Orange, chairman of the hospitality committee. Monroe Sharpless, the new director, succeeds Frank Pierce, who is now on the staff of the California Farm Bureau federation at Berkeley.

Programs Planned
Chairman Harpster made the statement today that an invitation is extended to any farm bureau member to join the chorus. After the convention the chorus will participate in farm center and other farm programs during the year. The chorus activities are a part of the general rural recreation program sponsored by the farm bureau and the agricultural extension service of the University of California.

NATURE IS ON THE JOB

The ancient Romans had an all-wise rule for living. It decreed "A life according to Nature, tempered by Reason." That rule of practice brought them mastery of the whole world. When at last Rome departed from it, its empire and all its world-power blew up in its face, and left Rome a wreck. Nature can't be improved on. Never is that more true than with the dogs. Nature never put anything on or in a dog's body (or in a human's) that didn't belong there.

If dogs didn't need their tails, Nature would have bred them tailless. Nature would have bred them tailless.

Many Trees Dry
"It is a well known fact that as long as leaves of the trees remain green the tree is using water. It is true that much less has been used this fall than last. Nevertheless, it is apparent to even casual observer driving through the walnut areas that many trees are dry."

Here in Orange county where there is only a limited amount of cold weather it is essential that the trees go dormant naturally. They cannot be forced dormant by withholding water. Such practice would jeopardize the future health and vigor of the tree. It is better, therefore, to keep them in good growing condition and let dormancy come as a natural phenomenon, rather than an artificially created condition.

Advantage Cited
"There is another advantage to a light irrigation at this time of the year, and that is the conservation of small amounts of rainfall. If half or three-fourths of an inch of rain falls on totally dry soil it is largely lost by evaporation, unless another rain occurs in a very short time. If, on the other hand, the soil is moist, that half inch or inch of rain will penetrate far enough to get beyond the reach of the surface evaporation, thus adding to the moisture reserve."

"In planning the furrowing system, allow a 'dry block' around the tree trunk for 'anchorage' in case a desert wind occurs during or soon after the application of water."

NAVY PREPARES
TURKEY FEAST
AT SAN DIEGO

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Nov. 3. — (UP) — The 30,000 odd sailors who comprise that part of the navy station in San Diego are going to have plenty of Thanksgiving turkey to satisfy even the most ravenous — an average of more than 3 pounds per man.

This was revealed here when supply officers said they had ordered 90,000 pounds of turkey — 45 tons, to be exact — to top the holiday menu at ship and shore establishments here.

Of course, the 90,000 pounds represents bird on the hoof, but even allowing for shrinkage in dressing, the sailors will have plenty.

There's Lot More!
In addition to the turkey the Thanksgiving grocery list of supply officers would fill a market basket which would cause even a Hercules to stagger.

The list for the month includes: 1,125,000 pounds of canned corn, 3,300,000 pounds of tomatoes, 1,700,000 pounds of peas, 7,000,000 pounds of evaporated milk, 2,900,000 pounds of peaches and pears, 1,500,000 pounds of jam, 500,000 pounds of sauerkraut, 1,500,000 pounds of catsup, 1,000,000 pounds of apples, and to top it all off, 350 tons of spinach.

No estimate was made of the amount of ice cream which will be needed to round out this sailor's meal de luxe, but it was indicated an equally large supply of food-stuff would be needed for Christmas although the officers hoped there would be some of the canned items left over, so another order would not be necessary within the month.

WIDE USE SEEN
IN '38 FOR IRON
COTTON PICKER

By W. F. DeLOACHE
MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 3. — (UP) — Mechanical cotton pickers, which can pick more cotton per day than 15 men—today virtually appeared certain of harvesting a significant part of Dixie's 1938 crop.

Both the Rust Brothers and the International Harvester Co., whose machines are the furthest developed—have taken orders from planters of the fertile Mississippi delta, where pickers will be operated next season.

Pickers of each company continued field tests this season—almost within sight of each other—near Clarksdale, Miss. One of the Rust machines is at the Delta Experiment Station at Stoneville, undergoing government-supervised tests.

Wet weather curbed operations somewhat, although John Rust reported his machine harvested more than 40 bales this season. The harvester company released no report on their experimental tests.

Two Models Fought
The Rust concern has two revised models built; one in operation in Mississippi, the other in Tashkent, Russian Turkistan, under the supervision of Mack Rust.

Five pickers are being tried by the harvester company near Clarksdale, Stoneville, San Antonio, Tex., El Paso, and Phoenix, Ariz.

In general, both machines are alike, although they differ in operating details. Each apparatus whirling spindles that generate plucks the fibre by means of the stalks as they pass through a picking tube. The stalks are reached on both sides of the tractor-mounted machines by tandem picking units in staggered formation.

Spindles Are Different
The type of spindles used have one basic difference. Short, heavy, conical in Mississippi, the other in Tashkent, Russian Turkistan, are employed in one model. In the other the apparatus carries many lone, wire-like smooth spindles on an endless belt on each of its two picking units.

The fundamental difference of the revised Rust machine and the one previously exhibited is that the newer device has two picking units instead of one, picking each row twice in one operation.

John Rust said the new picker stripped open bolls with little loss, and the cotton showed small loss in grade after it was ginned. Figures on one continuous run showed that the machine picked 3,027 pounds of Delfos cotton in 7 hours, 35 minutes. Labor and fuel cost was 18 cents per 100 pounds on this run. (A man picking cotton does well to average 150 pounds a day.)

Efficiency Put at 90 Pct.
The only available report on the International machine showed it was 90 per cent efficient in picking open cotton. W. C. Evers, factory expert conducting experiments, estimated fuel cost at 20 cents per hour for 23 gallons of low grade gasoline. Officials said that the picker would sell for about $1,600.

The Rust machine was expected to sell for $4,800, complete with tractor. John Rust estimated operating expense, including labor, fuel, interest, etc., at about $1.75 an acre. Rust believes his machine, which has been equipped with lights, could be operated continuously for 24 hours.

The Rust Brothers announced plans for a Rust Foundation, whose purpose it would be to use profits from their machine to alleviate possible depressed social conditions resulting from efficient operation of a mechanical cotton picker.

SANTA ANA MAN HELD TO FACE 'CHISELING' CHARGES

Charged with asserted "chiseling" of state direct relief funds from the state relief administration, Dewey Dreblow, Santa Ana, was ordered today to appear before Judge Kenneth Morrison in Santa Ana justice court tomorrow at 9 a. m. to answer to arraignment on petty theft charges.

He was charged on two counts of petty theft and with falsifying an application for relief. The arrest was made by Jack E. Barton, special investigator for State Controller Harry B. Riley, who is waging a concerted effort in Orange and other counties to end the alleged "chiseling" by those who obtain relief funds while employed gainfully.

According to the complaint filed by Barton, Dreblow on July 23, said he was unemployed since July 1, but investigation revealed he was employed by the C. O. Sparks company, Los Angeles, from June 1 to August 5, earning $350.

The petty theft counts allege the Dreblows received state relief checks for $32.38 on August 2 and $10.86 on July 30.

S. A. MINISTERS
PLAN PROGRAM
ARMISTICE EVE

The Women's Glee club of Pomona college will give a concert in Santa Ana on Wednesday evening, November 10, in connection with the Armistice peace meeting which will be put on under the auspices of the Santa Ana Ministerial association.

Last year the Ministerial association sponsored such a meeting on Armistice eve at which the speaker was Kathleen Norris, the well known novelist. The response to that meeting was so enthusiastic that the ministers have decided to hold a similar program this year. Numerous requests have come to them that they make this Armistice eve peace meeting an annual affair. The address of the evening will be given by Dr. John W. Darr, head of the department of religion and chaplain of Scripps college. Dr. Darr is a forceful speaker and feels keenly the need of rallying the forces for peace at this time, it was stated.

This meeting will be held at the high school auditorium. The glee club will give a 45 minute concert, beginning at 7:30 p. m. Dr. Darr's address will follow the concert. Admission will be free with no seats reserved.

TRAFFIC ILLS
TO BE "CURED"

Notices of the county's intention to purchase two parcels of property, one at Placentia and Chapman avenues, near Placentia, for the purpose of eliminating a hazardous traffic point, will be advertised by County Clerk Basil J. Smith, under authorization of the county supervisors, given late yesterday.

The second purchase is that of a right-of-way strip connecting North Main street, Santa Ana, with the northerly side of the Santiago park. The supervisors recently voted to purchase the strip from E. R. Merriweather, at a price of $1000 for an area of approximately a quarter-acre.

Gets Appropriation
Charles Pallert, manager of the National Reemployment Service bureau here, which has been transferred to state control and will move from the Santa Ana federal building to a down-town location November 15, was granted an appropriation of $75 by the supervisors yesterday. The county contribution for telephone expense of the NRS bureau.

State Music Chairman
Addresses
Woman's Club Members

That Americans have never yet attached sufficient importance to their own music and composers, was a point given emphasis yesterday in the fine talk which Mrs. Anna Meservy of Los Angeles, addressed to members of Santa Ana Woman's club at their program meeting in Veterans' hall.

Mrs. Meservy, chairman of music in California Federation of Women's clubs, was presented by Mrs. F. A. Martin as guest speaker on a program which included several pleasant features, including a musical interval which illustrated some of the objectives of the guest speaker during her year in office.

High School Singers
This music was provided by Herbert G. Bickel of the high school music department, who presented talented young people of his classes. A double sextet from the Girls' Glee club sang three numbers including "Green Cathedral" and "Nightingale's Song"; a double quartet from the Boys' Glee club followed with "Bells of St. Mary's" and "Thy Troubadour" and then a double octet from the two groups sang several selections closing with "Song of the Vikings." The young people were received with enthusiasm and in their vivid red Russian houses looked as attractive as they sounded.

Mrs. R. A. McMahon, club president, directed the afternoon's session, calling for the various reports of section and general activities, and asking nominations for delegates to the Southern District convention November 16, 17 and 18. This will be held in Pacific Coast club, Long Beach, and Woman's club will be represented by Mrs. Minnie M. Collins and Mrs. E. E. Turbox, delegates. Mrs. Earl Lepper and Mrs. William Kuhn, alternates.

Clubs Must Sing
In continuing her discussion of music, the guest speaker, Mrs. Meservy, spoke of the necessity of each club incorporating music in its programs, and voiced her appreciation of the work of the young people from high school. That clubwomen should sing at their sessions, just as they should sing individually in their homes, was her contention, for she pointed out, a "club without rhythm is a club without rhyme and almost without reason."

That this country's music has been largely created in other countries, and only interpreted to us by our own singers, was a situation that she believes will be changed as American composers came into more recognition. She spoke of the manner in which the National Anthem has been simplified so that it may be sung more easily, and asked that all entirely, and that they should retain also a familiarity with "America" making it also a national air as a subtle compliment to our English forebears.

In advance of Mrs. Meservy's interesting talk, Hunter Leach of the city police department, introduced Attorney Adrian Marks, who spoke briefly in favor of the civil service election coming up November 16.

Clubwomen were then informed that because of the resignation of Mr. Harry Brackett as press chairman, they may telephone their announcements and other publicity to Mrs. Earl M. Waycott, 4123, who has been appointed by Mrs. McMahon to fill out Mrs. Brackett's term of office.

Clever Program Shared
By Tavern Tatlers

Initiating nine new members into their organization, Jaycee Tavern Tatlers met last night in the campus library.

Initiation rites took the form of original readings by the members, the Misses Clara Westerman, Eileen Reid, Marjorie Volmer, Virginia Sheppard, Muriel Snyder, Messrs. Herschel Albrecht, Lawrence Trickey and Will Ruld.

At a business meeting, plans were discussed for a visit to the Pasadena Community Playhouse on November 16. Presiding at this meeting was Miss LaVonne Frandson, president of Tavern Tatlers.

Hostesses of the evening, the Misses Jean Mulbar and Elizabeth Robinson, served tea to assembled guests, from a lace-covered table centered by yellow baby chrysanthemums. Pouring tea were the two hostesses.

Thomas H. Glenn was present as advisor.

HONORING VISITOR

Dr. and Mrs. Maxwell Burke, 1441 Orange avenue had as weekend guests, their daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Lyman and Miss Barbara Burke of Los Angeles. Coming as a pleasant feature of the visit was a family dinner party at Danigers in honor of the birthday anniversary of Mrs. Lyman.

Piles successfully treated without surgery, loss of time or hospitalization.

Conclave Plans Outlined
When Junior Ebell Meets

Doors of Ebell clubhouse, of many Santa Ana homes and of the city in general will be opened to Southern District Junior clubwomen Friday and Saturday when Junior Ebell society will be hostess to scores of prominent young people from all over the Southland. Final plans for receiving the delegates were outlined last night before Junior Ebell members when they held a monthly meeting in the clubhouse.

Mrs. E. D. White, state adviser of Juniors, Mrs. Burt Zaiser, general chairman of local arrangements for the conclave, and Mrs. Russell Wilson, Southern District president, presented plans for extending hospitality to the many visitors this weekend.

Opening Friday evening at 6:30 o'clock with an informal dinner and program in the clubhouse, the conclave will reach a climax Saturday afternoon with 3:30 o'clock tea at Bowers Memorial museum. Saturday events will begin at 9 o'clock with a breakfast for the visiting members, followed by business meeting at 10 o'clock. Election of officers and other business matters will be followed at 12:15 o'clock by luncheon. Junior Ebell members were reminded to make their reservations for the Friday evening dinner and the Saturday luncheon.

November Events
Mrs. Albert Harvey conducted the business meeting, during which chairman of November events outlined plans. Mrs. Stanley Norton told of the rummage sale to be held November 18 at 514 East Fourth street, and asked members to make their contributions in advance.

Mrs. Hubert Gohres reminded members that the harvest ball will be held Saturday, November 27 at 9:30 p. m. in the clubhouse. Mrs. Carleton Smith, decorations chairman for the dance, gave a report. Mrs. Roscoe Conklin introduced new members of the club, including Mesdames Frank Harrington, Fred Ferley, Lyle Kelly, Kingsley Tuttle, Milton Poppett, George Nelson, Jack Hanna, Francis Norton, Joseph Bradshaw, William Jeffrey, and the Misses Elsie Simsen, Eugenie Clark, Ruth Warner, Janet Diehl and Alma McClain.

Tea Interval
Mrs. Walter Bacon, social chairman for the year, and Mrs. Robert U. Smith had arranged the tea interval. Working with them were Mesdames Thomas Wahlberg, Bruce Harwood, Hans Wahlberg, Bruce Anderson, and Don Plumb. Mrs. M. B. Wellington and Mrs. E. D. White poured tea and coffee, presiding at a table centered with a colorful horn of plenty lighted by tapers furthering the autumnal motif.

Many Guests Received
For Merry Party

The pretty home of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Finster, 1004 Louise street, was setting for a gay party Saturday night. A group of friends and relatives were entertained. Decorations of bats, witches, pumpkins and other symbols carried out the Halloween motif.

Appropriate games were played, with prizes won by Mrs. Curtis Burrow, Mrs. Arthur Blanding, Mrs. Elwin Gammell, John Sutherland and Hugh Osborn. As a climax to the merriment, the hostess, assisted by her mother, Mrs. Paul, and her aunt, Mrs. Edwin H. Mueller, served hot waffles and syrup, ice cream and coffee at small tables.

Those sharing the celebration with Mr. and Mrs. Finster and Mrs. Paul were Mr. and Mrs. Edw. H. Mueller, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Sutherland, Tustin; Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Osborn, Long Beach; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hazen, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur M. Blanding, Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Wyman, Mrs. James M. Pederson, Dr. and Mrs. A. P. Keontopp, Mr. and Mrs. Elwin Gammell, Mr. and Mrs. C. Lindgren and Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Burrow, Santa Ana.

Miss Rowland Gives
Program for Chapter

Mrs. Harry Hanson's home, 412 Orange avenue, was setting for a meeting of Chapter AB, P. E. O. at which she and Mrs. William Saurgenon Jr. were co-hostesses Monday afternoon.

Miss Ruth Rowland provided the program, giving an interesting talk on some of her experiences in the Hawaiian Islands, where she spent a year teaching.

Bouquets of Mexican sunflowers and other bright-hued flowers were used in decorating the home. The hostesses served luncheon on trays preceding the program.

The next meeting, November 15 will be held in the home of the president, Mrs. Clarence Nison in Tustin.

IN THORNDIKE HOME
Miss Albert Tinsnerat and little daughter Joanne, of Corona, have been spending the past few days with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Thorndike, 1523 North Broadway.

Mrs. Tinsnerat, Mrs. Robert Goetting and Miss Lucie Holmes expected to go to Alhambra today for a visit with Mrs. Tinsnerat's sister, Mrs. Robert Hull. Mrs. Hull plans to come Thursday to spend the rest of the week with the Thorndikes.

Housewarming Given as Surprise to
The Vincent Borchards

Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Borchard's pretty home on Fairview Road was rendezvous for a gay group of friends who staged a surprise housewarming Monday evening. The early California type residence was duly inspected, and a merry time ensued.

The Borchards are among the many recently married young couples to establish a home in this community. Mrs. Borchard came here as a bride a few months ago from Santa Barbara, her home city. She is the former Miss Kathleen Neagle.

Dancing and cards were on the informal housewarming program. The self-invited guests brought refreshments, which were served from a flower-decked table.

Bernard Haupt had made arrangements for the party. Others present were Messrs. and Mesdames Joseph Hamann, Albert Banks, Anthony Kneip, Arthur Wakefield, John Marling, Burley Durbin, W. Faulkner; the Misses Dorine Haupt, Geraldine Haupt, Lucille Howell, Estelle Schlesinger, Alice Borchard, Bernice Borchard, Wilma Borchard, Nellie Colombini, Betty Jane Moore, Messrs. Paul Haupt, Earl Halderman, Alvin Holtz, Erhart Hagaman, Alfred Halderman, Alfred Borchard, Joe Callens, Earl Cunningham and Mrs. Walter Markel.

Alpha Rho Tau Holds
Pre-holiday Party

Quite a striking contrast to the Halloween appointments which have distinguished parties of the past fortnight, were the decorations chosen last night for the Jaycee gathering of Alpha Rho Tau members in the art bungalow on the campus.

For the coming Yule season was uppermost in all details of the evening, principally because members spent the evening on designs for Christmas cards to be executed in readiness for the holiday demand. Cards which have been designed by this organization in previous years, not only served to adorn the bungalow, but offered inspiration to members in their designs for the current year. Their arrangement decoratively, had been planned by Miss Charlotte McCausland and Joe Kobiyashi.

Miss Lucinda Griffith of the college art department and Lester Bowman had planned the successful box supper with which the evening opened, and chapter pledges, for whom the party was a compliment, found that their duty was to set the art bungalow to rights at the conclusion of a gay evening. Included in this group were Van Brown, Upton Pett, Douglas Simmons and Alan Ritter. The cards upon which the group worked last night, will be among those on display at a tea which College Patrons' association will stage in the art bungalow Wednesday afternoon, November 24.

Present for the gay affair were the Misses Lucinda Griffith and Frances Egge, art instructors, Miss Betty West, President, the Misses Charlotte McCausland, Marian Baxter, Ida Holland, Lucille Yen, Jo Butler, Marjorie Lee Brown, Irvin Krisher, Frances Gerhart, Ruth Switzer, Wanda Todd, Evelyn Witt, Gwen Rasmussen, Donna Jordan, Betty Nell, Thelma Marks, Dorothy Heff, Dorothy Jenkins, Florence Sieber, Barbara Speed, Messrs. Lester Bowman, Joe Kobiyashi, Fred Tinsor, John Tullitt, Kenneth Kingrey, Douglas Simms, Upton Pett, Van Brown, Alan Ritter, Frank Johnson, and Bob Bradley.

Announcements

Veteran Rebekahs will serve a noon day dinner Friday in the basement of I. O. O. F. hall, with members and friends invited to attend the affair, for which a nominal sum will be charged. The Rebekahs will hold a monthly meeting during the day.

Legion Auxiliary members are reminded of their meeting tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in Veterans hall. A special program has been planned and there will be a social hour with refreshments.

Autumn Colors
Are Effective
In Party Plans

Glowing with the same flashing autumnal hues that characterized two earlier functions in the same pleasant setting, the J. Frank Burke home yesterday was hospitably opened for a luncheon at which Mrs. Loyal K. King, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burke, concluded the party series introduced by her and Mrs. Burke a week ago.

Many of the flowers used so advantageously about the airy big rooms, were sent by interested friends, including Mrs. Fred Newcomb Jr., Mrs. M. Burr Wellington and Mrs. David Howell. Mrs. Burke was not entertaining with her daughter, but lent assistance in receiving the guests, and in all details of the afternoon.

Place cards for the luncheon hour later served to indicate positions and partners at the contract tables. Special scores were made by Mrs. E. Paul Young of Los Angeles, Mrs. Roy Russell and Mrs. Stanley Reinhaus. They were the delighted recipients of crystal candleholders.

Mrs. King's invitation list included with Mrs. Gordon M. Grundy of Newport Beach and Mrs. E. Paul Young of Los Angeles, Mesdames John Backus, Wilbur Barr, Robert B. Bartholomew, R. S. Chandler, Ellis C. Diehl, Paul Dinmore, Maurice Enderle, Edgar F. Elfstrom, Jack Fisher, Clarence Gustin, James K. Hermon, Jerry Hall, Harry G. Huffman, David Howell, James Irvine, Rex Kennedy, Mark Lacy, Hugh Lowe, Clarence Nison, Fred Newcomb Jr., C. Mortimer Plum, Alan A. Revill, Orlyn Robertson, Roy Russell, Stanley Reinhaus, John Scripps, Clifton B. Steele, H. K. Sutherland, Mona Summers Smith, Emrys D. White and M. Burr Wellington.

Dorcas Society Plans
Various Activities

Fifty members and guests of First Christian Dorcas society took part in a monthly meeting Monday evening in the educational building, where a talk by Miss Ruth Rowland followed a business session during which welfare projects and other activities were given a promising start.

Members loaded a table with canned goods for Thanksgiving baskets which will be in charge of Mildred Weisberger, Dorothy Hurd, Helen Humphrey, Marie Steen and Dortha Lassiter. President Ocie Hagthorn named on a nominating committee, Dorothy Loughton, Dorothy Hurd, Georgina Allison and June Lawrence.

It was reported that 134 calls had been made and 27 articles placed with the needy during the month of October. November 30 was announced as the date for a blue plate luncheon. On the committee will be Elva Tibbals, Pauline Hosteler, Esther Williams, Dortha Lassiter and Jean Tibbets.

Gifts will be exchanged by members at a Christmas dinner, December 6. Names were drawn for this exchange, and it was decided to match the amount expended for gifts with a fund to be used for kindly service during the holidays. Leona Leecing, Elva Tibbals and Esther Williams will further this cause. On the Christmas dinner committee will be Ethel Becker, Elva Tibbals, Rose Woodward, Lillian Williams, Mary Richmond, Gladys Sullivan and Mabel Dunlap.

Program
Hazel Bishop introduced Miss Rowland, who told of her experiences last year while teaching at Hiro school in Hawaii. Her pupils were made up of several different nationalities, it was pointed out. Miss Rowland described the beauties of the islands, and its many flowers and plants.

Refreshments were served from a lace-spread table centered with a centerpiece of fall fruits lighted by tall tapers. Mrs. Horace Leecing and Mrs. Willard Baset poured. Other hostesses were Hazel Bishop, Madelyn Coulson, Alta Dorman and Kathryn Pratt.

Guests were Mesdames Velda May Patrick, Allen Massey, Doris Bennett and Beverly Rime, all of whom signed their intentions of joining the club; and Mesdames E. O. Allen, Carl Hopkins, Robert F. McKee, Santa Ana; Mrs. E. V. Hall of Anaheim and Mrs. H. S. Matthews of Tustin.

It was announced that Martha Raymond and Julietta Faulkner will arrange the program for the Missionary society in December.

Contract Group Meets
With Mrs. Turner

Serving a tempting dessert course as preliminary to an afternoon of contract, Mrs. Hazel Turner entertained yesterday afternoon in her home, 706 Spurgeon street. Chrysanthemums lent their autumn charm to the table at which guests were seated for the friendly refreshment interval before they sought places at the waiting card tables. Mrs. John H. Bower and Mrs. J. C. Sexton were prize winners in the succeeding bridge play. Mesdames Blanche Brock and Chester Hawk were special guests sharing the afternoon with Mrs. Turner and her club group, Mesdames Fleetwood Bell, George Munro, A. J. Lashby, W. B. Williams, Alex Brownbridge, John H. Bower, C. F. Skirvin, W. B. Martin and J. C. Sexton.

RETURN FROM NORTH

Mrs. Allie Ward, 1204 North Ross street and Mrs. M. C. Pollard, 111 El Portal street, have returned from a several days' stay in San Francisco and other northern points.

Mrs. Ward attended a general convocation of Methodist church South, in the Bay City. She spent some time visiting in the home of her nephew, Glenn House, who is manager of an Owl Drug company in the northern city. Mrs. Pollard was a guest of her son, Clarence Pollard, of Mar Vista, who is assistant superintendent of Standard Oil Refinery, and was with her daughter, Mrs. L. A. Dickinson and family at Point Richmond for some of the time.

The Santa Anas were together for several sightseeing trips. While Mrs. Ward remained in San Francisco to visit various points, Mrs. Pollard went to Vallejo and other neighboring communities to be with relatives and friends.

RETURN FROM VISIT

After a month's visit in Kentucky and West Virginia, Mr. and Mrs. George S. McKinney, Mr. and Mrs. Monroe McKinney, Mrs. B. Z. McKinney and Mrs. Price R. Taylor, have returned to their several homes in this city.

Their automobile trip east was made by way of the Grand Canyon, and aside from their stop at that famous scenic point, they spent only three and a half days on the journey back to Kentucky. Much of the time was spent in Huntington, W. Va., the former home of Mr. and Mrs. McKinney.

Review of Play

Gathered in the home of Miss Farriet Clarke, 1322 North Garnsey street, members of Junior college Y. W. C. A. were entertained Monday night by Mrs. Mona Summers Smith's review of the play, "You Can't Take It With You."

The program followed covered-lash dinner served from a table centered with gourds, red leaves and yellow chrysanthemums. White and burgundy flowers decked the rooms.

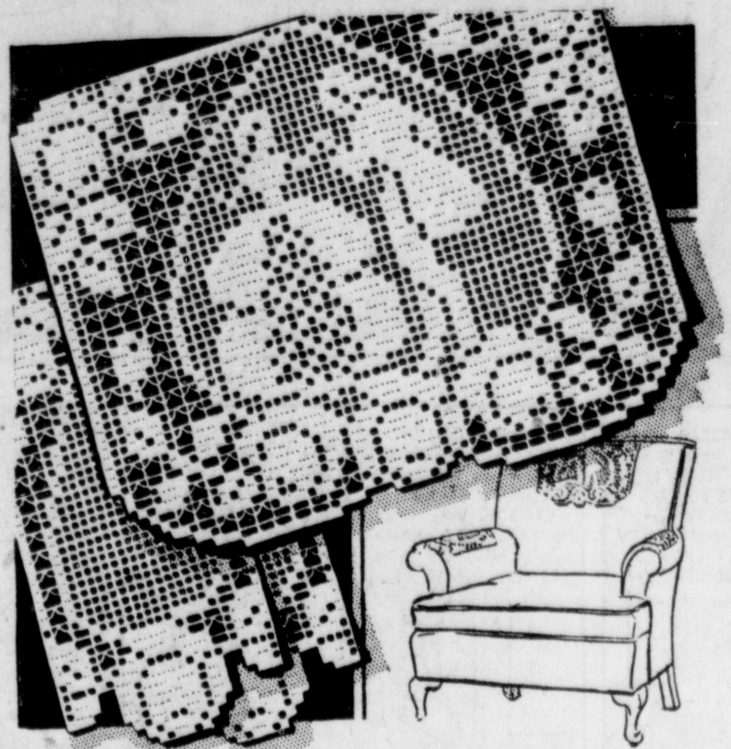

Mrs. John Tessmann was present as adviser.

Discussion of an approaching conference in December of the Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. Asilomar region occupied part of the time. Miss Pauline Cave presided and explained that members will sell tags on the campus in order to raise funds to send delegates to this conference.

HOME FROM IOWA

Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Maier have returned to their ranch home near Orange after an enjoyable three weeks' trip back to Iowa taken in company with Compton friends, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Moreland. They left on the Challenger, and the Maiers stopped in Creston, Iowa, to visit Mrs. Maier's mother, Mrs. M. J. Jordan, while their friends continued to Flint, Mich., to take delivery on two new automobiles.

Mr. and Mrs. Moreland returned to Creston where they were joined by Mr. and Mrs. Maier who drove one of the cars home, the party of four stopping at various points of interest en route.

Sister and Brother
Give Merry Party

One of the festive parties of the past week was that at which Margaret and Melvin Rez entertained a group of school friends in the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Rez, 825 North Parson street.

Dick Hill's clever costume won first prize for him. Pat Moore, who was the most successful at pinning the tail on the donkey, and Kenneth Mendenhall who scored high in one of the games, were rewarded with gifts.

Mrs. Albert Chast assisted Mrs. Rez in serving pumpkin pie, cookies and fruit punch at the table decorated in orange and black. There were horns and other favors for each guest.

In the group with the sister and brother hosts were Mary Jean Tedstrom, Ann Russell, Pat Moore, Harriett Hall, Elizabeth Brown, Audrey Bartelson, Donna Lee Chandler, Mary Ann Woodworth, Rose Marie Chast, Marjorie Chast, Dick Hill, Buster Brown, Kenneth Mendenhall, Eugene Smith, Don Rathbone, Francis Thornberg, Bob Edgar, Jerry Eckel and Ben Schlegel.

Numbered among pledges to the various sororities of University of California at Los Angeles, are several Santa Ana girls now students at the university. Two students pledging Theta Upsilon sorority were Miss Ann Borchard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Borchard of Williams street, and Miss Marjane Belcher, daughter of the Guy Belchers, 418 West Second street. Miss Margaret Sawyer, daughter of the Frank Sawyers, 1322 Durant street, pledged Alpha Delta Pi.

The Mixing Bowl
By ANN MEREDITH

There may be "nothing new under the sun" but there are new ways of presenting old ideas or recipes. This Pumpkin Custard pie is an example.

Two Pumpkin Custard Pies
2 cups canned pumpkin (or boiled and mashed winter squash)
1 cup sugar
1 scant teaspoon ginger and same of cinnamon
1-2 teaspoon nutmeg and
1-4 teaspoon salt
Mix well and add
4 egg yolks well beaten, mixed with
1 cup rich milk and strained before adding to pumpkin part.

Bake the crusts (2 of them) for these pies. Fill with the custard part and bake in a medium oven until nicely set. Take from oven, spread with meringue made from the 4 egg whites beaten with sifted powdered sugar. Return to oven to brown slowly. (The custard filling bakes more quickly and evenly if the custard part is heated and the milk well heated before mixing with the egg yolks).

HONORABLE MENTION
RECIPES

Butter Flake Pastry
1 cup pastry flour, sifted before measuring, and again sifted with
1 tablespoon powdered sugar
1 quarter-pound cube of butter, less than one thin pat

—Contributed and tested.
Sift flour and sugar into a flat bowl and set in refrigerator to chill for an hour before making up the paste. Cut the butter into thin slivers and work it into the chilled flour with finger tips or pastry mixer until it resembles a coarse meal. There is no liquid used in this recipe, strange it seems.

Pat the meal against sides and bottom of a buttered pie tin. Butter "down" side of another pie tin and carefully press down over the pastry meal. Bake in a 350 degree oven, on the middle rack, for 20 minutes. Carefully remove the top pie tin while still hot, then cool the crust in pan, on a rack.

Of course these wispy pie crusts are fit only for cooked chiffoned pie fillings. My suggestion would be to use the crust for special occasions, filled with a FROZEN lemon chiffon pie filling. Make up your favorite chiffon lemon filling, then add to it 1 cup double cream, whipped stiff. Freeze this filling. To serve, take tray from refrigerator 10 minutes before serving, smooth the frozen filling into the crust and serve at once. Chiffoned pumpkin pie, frozen, and served in this style is tops for Thanksgiving. Dinner celebrations. I have done them both this way and recommend them for special occasions.

Nut Smaaks for School Lunches
Cream 1-2 cup sugar with
1-3 cup soft butter, and 1 tsp. vanilla

Beat 2 egg yolks to thick froth and whip into creamed part. Work in 1 cup flour sifted with 1 teaspoon baking powder and dash of salt.

Spread or pat this dough into a very thin layer in shallow pan. Cover with a meringue made of the beaten egg whites (2) mixed after beating with 1 cup brown sugar and 1 cup chopped walnuts. Bake slowly, mark for cutting before cooling.

Oyster Pan Roast
1 quart small count fresh oysters
About 1-3 pound butter
1 cup catsup and juice of 2 lemons
1 chopped green pepper
Salt, pepper and paprika to taste
Few drops of tobacco sauce or of cayenne
This buttered toast points

—My recipe.
Wash and drain oysters. Poach in 1-4 cup water. For the sauce: saute the pepper in the butter for 10 minutes, add the catsup and all seasonings, bring to a boil, take off the fire and add the oysters. Have a shallow buttered casserole lined with toast points, pour in oysters and sauce and bake 10 minutes in a hot oven. Serve with dill pickles and hot rolls. The recipe serves six for Sunday supper or eight for a lunch party.

SCHOOL GROUP NAMES TUSTIN MAN PRESIDENT

PLACENTIA, Nov. 3.—More than 140 Orange county school teachers met with the Schoolmasters' club at Placentia last night, where Arch Raitt served a barbecue dinner prior to the business and entertainment session.

John Crossley, principal of the Valencia High school, who has been president for the past year, was succeeded last night in that position by Don Berkstall, of Tustin. The program included music by the Valencia High school orchestra under the direction of Ernest Uzes; numbers by the Fullerton District Junior college; a capella choir, directed by Benjamin Edwards, and several variety numbers by Max Terhune, with Paramount studios. Bruce Miller, principal of the Bradford avenue grammar school, led in group singing.

Dinner Plans Outlined by Tustin P.-T. A.

TUSTIN, Nov. 3.—At an executive board meeting of the P.-T. A. of the Tustin Union High school Monday afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. Joseph L. Marshall, plans were made for the 6:30 p. m. turkey dinner to be served to the Orange County Elementary School Teachers' association November 18 in the Tustin High school cafeteria.

At this time, the grammar school P.-T. A. and the high school P.-T. A. will be joint hosts to the Fourth District P.-T. A. Dinner. Mr. J. P. Marshall, president of the grammar school P.-T. A., will be the main speaker at the meeting to be held at 7:30 p. m. in the auditorium following the dinner.

The board voted that a note of appreciation be given to G. B. Martien and his entire committee for a most successful dinner meeting October 25.

During the social hour after the executive board meeting, Miss Clara Macomber presided at a prettily appointed tea table. Refreshments of wafers and tea, candies and nuts were served.

Those present were Mesdames Joseph L. Marshall, May W. Burum, G. B. Martien, Fred Newcom, L. R. Stearns, Guy H. Christian, A. M. Robinson, J. D. Campbell, E. W. Earl, S. Casey, Glenn S. Warner, Porter G. Luther and the Misses Clara Macomber and Jessie Kempton.

Actor Presents Program For Anaheim Ebell

ANAHEIM, Nov. 3.—Moving his audience to laughter and to tears, Schuyler Ladd, noted Broadway actor, presented a number of highly artistic monologues Monday at the Anaheim Ebell club. Introduced by Mrs. R. N. Ashley, program chairman, Ladd entertained the group with sketches of his own composition showing familiar figures in the business world.

Preceding the afternoon program, luncheon was served at 12:30 p'clock, with Mrs. R. W. Dickenson and Mrs. Eldon Deering as co-chairmen.

Appointments were arranged by Mrs. Grace Harris, Mrs. Earl Spencer, and Mrs. R. H. Duncan. Mrs. A. P. M. Brown introduced as special guests for the luncheon, Mrs. H. G. Miller, president of the county federation and Mrs. Ida Deskins, fourth district treasurer.

Arthur Corey, assistant superintendent of schools in Orange county was the luncheon speaker, discussing the labor problems facing the United States today.

Concluding the meeting, Mrs. Walter Ross, membership chairman, introduced as the new members of the club, Mrs. R. Kells Swenson, Mrs. J. S. Ward, Mrs. F. H. Schneider, Mrs. John Anthony, Mrs. William Rickel, Mrs. George King, Mrs. P. E. Fluor, Mrs. Northrup Ellis, Mrs. Curtis Case, Mrs. Albert Raymond and Mrs. Thomas McFadden.

Name Temporary Officers For New Lions Club

TUSTIN, Nov. 3.—A preliminary meeting of the Tustin Lions club was held at 7:30 p. m., Monday night in the American Legion hall, with 16 prospective members present. Minimum membership requirements for a club organization are 20 members, whose object is to be achieved soon.

Ed Cox was elected temporary president and Judge Dwight Hayden was chosen temporary secretary and treasurer.

Plans were made to hold future meetings the first and third Tuesday nights each month in the Tustin Townsend hall. The next session will feature a 7 o'clock dinner and round table meeting for members and prospective members at the Townsend hall November 15. The dinner will be served by women of the Tustin Townsend club.

New Manager For Auto Club

ANAHEIM, Nov. 3.—C. R. Brandon, of Huntington Park, replaces A. P. M. Brown, for 11 years manager of the Anaheim office of the Automobile Club of Southern California and takes over his duties here this week.

Brown, who has been with the club for 16 years, in Orange before coming to Anaheim, has resigned with other plans in mind. He will continue to make his home in Anaheim, where he is active in Boy Scout work, the Masonic lodge, and Lions club, of which he is president, as well as numerous other civic organizations.

Brandon has been with the club 13 years and for the past 10 years was located at Huntington Park.

STUDENTS TO PRESENT PROGRAM FOR P-T A

FULLERTON, Nov. 3.—The first student talent program sponsored by the Maple Avenue P.-T. A. as a benefit for the soup kitchen of the school will be given at 8 p. m. Thursday at the Wilshire auditorium, according to announcement of Mrs. Evelyn Stroschein, president of the association.

Ann and Barbara Raff will give a tap dance; Patricia Holte, three and a half years of age, a cowboy song; Caroline Bradley, a cane dance; Margaret Stroschein, a piano selection; Jeanette Moore, a reading; and Marion Kohlenberger, a Russian dance.

In group 2, Billy Burdorf will present a piano selection; Alfred and Arthur Castillo of the Bradford school, Placentia, a saxophone and flute duet; Charlotte Varcoe, a tap dance; Jean Irwin, a reading; Jane Louise Potts, a tap dance; Barbara Burdorf, a piano solo; Herbert Bergen, an accordion solo; and Colleen Bradley, a dance number.

In group 3, Evelyn Bauman will play a violin solo; Grace Laird, present a reading; Harold Miller, a vocal solo, and Helen Pfeiffer, a reading.

Guests artists not competing are Mrs. Clara Liedtke, reader, and Miss Margaret Jaberg, Santa Ana, violinist.

Social Evening Is Enjoyed By Chamber Group

GARDEN GROVE, Nov. 3.—A social evening was enjoyed Monday evening by members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and their wives at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Moore on East Acacia street.

Assisting in the hostess duties with Mrs. Moore were Mrs. Allen Goddard and Mrs. John Ward. Various card games were played, with prizes given to Mrs. Lowell Jaynes, Mrs. Walter Donovan and Leslie Wright. A door prize was won by Mrs. Rockwell Kent.

An autumn theme was carried out in decorations of the home and in the fall orange tapers surrounded by autumn leaves as centerpieces for each small table. Refreshments of salad, rolls and coffee were served.

A short business session was conducted by the president, Walter Donovan. It was decided to hold a dinner meeting for members and prospective members at the Blue Bird cafe December 6. George Tobias, program chairman, will arrange the entertainment.

Present were Mr. and Mrs. Rockwell Kent, of Long Beach, guests; Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Lake, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Donovan, Mr. and Mrs. Victor McClain, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Jaynes, Mr. and Mrs. John Ward, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Goddard and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Moore.

Capistrano Home Scene of Party
SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Nov. 3.—Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Billips entertained a group of friends recently with an evening of cards at their Mission Hill home. The home was bright with Halloween decorations and arrangements of large and button chrysanthemums in bronze and yellow.

Immediately upon arrival each guest was given a mask and a bowl of popcorn. A prize given to the guest first consuming the popcorn was won by Mrs. Harry S. Barnes.

The refreshment hour found Mr. and Mrs. John Daneri in possession of the high prize and Mr. and Mrs. G. Paul Evans winner of the prize for low score. Mrs. Billips had carried out the Halloween motif used in the decorations and card tables in the supper menu. With the dessert Mrs. C. Russell Cook found a tiny candle on her serving of cake as a happy remembrance of her birthday October 31.

The guests enjoying the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Billips included Mr. and Mrs. C. Russell Cook, Mr. and Mrs. William Bathgate, Mr. and Mrs. G. Paul Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. John Daneri, Mr. and Mrs. J. Roy Smith and Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Gillette.

PEDESTRIAN KILLED

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Nov. 3.—(UP)—Rufus S. Hinkley, 76, junior high school janitor, was killed instantly when he was struck by an automobile as he started home at the end of his day's work here.

Hinkley's death swelled San Diego's traffic toll to 44 for the year. Clayton M. Law, driver of the death car, was booked on a charge of negligent homicide.

AUSTRALIA ELECTS MINISTER
WARRING, N. S. W., Nov. 3.—(UP)—Final figures in the Australian general election showed today that Sir Archdale Parkhill, national minister of defense, had been defeated by Percy Spender, Sydney attorney, 31,446 to 29,133.

The results, throughout the country, however, were regarded as an overwhelming endorsement of the government's defense policy.

BOOKED AT JAIL
Charged with failure to support his minor child, Henry Steele, 43, Fullerton, was booked at county jail last night by Constable Walter Skillman, Fullerton, to await arraignment.

'LITTLE WOMEN' GIVEN BY H. B. DRAMA CLASSES NOV. 19

The setting is in the March home in Concord, Mass. Katherine Cornell played the part of Jo in the original cast in 1913. Later in the movies, Katherine Hepburn played the same part.

REBELS LAUNCH ARAGON DRIVE

HENDAYE, French-Spanish Frontier, Nov. 3.—(UP)—The Nationalist "March to the Sea" was believed to have started today as additional details of the bombing of Lerida, Loyalist village in Catalonia, were received.

Government reports from Madrid indicated belief that the bombing, in which 120 persons were killed, including 50 school children, was the signal for a Nationalist drive on the Aragon front.

Many Wounded
In addition to those killed, 200 were wounded in the Lerida bombing, which Loyalist sources said was a "repetition of the bombings of Gijon and Guernica."

Government reports said nine bombers attacked Lerida, "dropping their entire loads, consisting of tons of bombs, on the unsuspecting city." The planes then machine-gunned fleeing civilians, according to the Loyalists.

METER PROPOSAL IS DEFEATED AT POLLS

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Nov. 3.—(UP)—Overwhelming defeat of a proposal to install five-cent parking meters in downtown Sacramento was considered today as the outstanding development of yesterday's municipal election.

Incomplete returns showed the proposal defeated almost 4 to 1, with 2860 affirmative and 10,576 negative votes. A proposal to issue $40,000 in bonds to build a new municipal art gallery also was rejected by a 2 to 1 majority. Six of seven city charter amendments were approved and nine city councilmen were elected.

BEH GOT UP FIRST
LOS ANGELES, Nov. 3.—(UP)—Their old bed arose before they did one morning and as a result, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Robert Corum today filed suit for $19,300 damages.

They named Minnie Bernicker, Marie Landon, and the manufacturers of the bed as defendants. Corum claimed he lost 15 pounds, had his spine injured and his ribs dislocated. His wife also was injured, the complaint said.

GIRL IS MISSING
Elpidia Cruz, 17, resident of the Santa Fe section house on East First street, was reported as a missing person today. Santa Ana police are hunting her. She is described as weighing 125 pounds, having five feet, two inches tall and being beautiful, white teeth. At time of disappearance, Miss Cruz wore brown dress and tan, silk stockings, her mother, Mrs. Anaselia Cruz, told police.

OIL STRIKE CALLED LABOR 'REBELLION'

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 3.—(UP)—Approximately 1000 employees of the Indian Territory Illuminating Oil company in Ellinwood, Kans., Seminole, Okla., and Oklahoma City were called out on strike at 7 a. m. today because of the discharge of 64 employees which the workers said had seniority ranking.

Union representatives and company officials were in conference most of Tuesday but failed to reach an agreement. The strike call was issued late last night at a mass meeting of 500 I.T.I.O. employees.

At Tulsa, Maurice Daley, state director of the International Oil Field Workers' union, termed the strike a "rebellion." He said the strike did not have the sanction of the full union organization and that he had attempted to stop it.

ARBITERS IN P. E. STRIKE TO CONVENE
LOS ANGELES, Nov. 3.—(UP)—Members of President Roosevelt's emergency arbitration board were expected to arrive here tonight to open hearings Friday for settlement of the Pacific Electric labor dispute.

William E. Mitchell, whose mediation efforts failed, announced that hearings would open Friday, with the board given 30 days under the new railway labor act in which to submit recommendations to the president.

The members of the board, appointed Monday, are Dr. Dexter M. Keezer, president of Reed college, Portland, Ore.; John P. Daveney, former chief justice of the Minnesota supreme court, and Dr. Isiah I. Schaffman, of the University of Michigan.

Their appointment halted again plans of nearly 2000 members of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen to strike at 2 a. m. Tuesday. The workers have demanded a 30 per cent increase in pay and rejected a 10 per cent compromise offered by the company.

FACES ASSAULT CHARGE
Paul Hoffnoff, 37, Orange, was jailed here by Orange police last night and charged with assault and battery.

MARLENE ILL
PARIS, Nov. 3.—(UP)—Marlene Dietrich, American film star, cancelled her reservation aboard the French liner Normandie, returning to New York, today, because of a slight attack of Grippe.

Two Drivers Are Injured In Crash
Burton Rowley, Route 1, Newport road near the foot of the Lemon Heights hills, Santa Ana, and M. M. McDonald, 324 East Pine street, were slightly injured last night at Orange avenue and McFadden street, when their cars collided. Officers J. F. McWilliams, George Boyd and W. H. Heard investigated.

Several persons escaped injury at 10 p. m. yesterday when a car driven by Ted Ashby, sailor from the U. S. S. Idaho, stationed at San Diego, struck a light pole at Flower street and Memory Lane. With him were Leonard Ashby and Clifford Hess of the same ship; Opal Heas, Bellflower, and Mary Janders, Long Beach. A car, registered to Harold Riehe, Hyman, and found abandoned on a vacant lot, was taken to a local garage for safekeeping. It had been damaged, apparently in an accident.

C. I. O. DEFEATED IN DETROIT ELECTIONS
DETROIT, Nov. 3.—(UP)—Final results of Detroit's municipal election today recorded overwhelming defeat for the Committee for Industrial Organization in its first effort to gain control of a major city's government.

The C. I. O.'s candidate for mayor, Patrick H. O'Brien, and its entire slate of five council aspirants were defeated under a wave of 419,061 ballots which broke all voting records in Detroit municipal elections.

The surge of anti-C. I. O. votes carried into the mayor's chair Richard W. Reading, veteran city clerk who held the endorsement of the American Federation of Labor, and returned six incumbents to the nine man common council along with three newcomers opposed to the "labor" slate. Reading polled 260,357 votes and O'Brien 154,050.

POLICE HEAR OF CHECK
A man who declared he was a police officer attempted to pass a $300 check, assertedly fictitious, at a local department store, a store official told Santa Ana police yesterday afternoon. The check was drawn on the Bank of America, Orange branch. The man said he wanted to buy a $9.98 radio.

COURT NOTES
The county grand jury was in session today at the courthouse, and was scheduled to name standing committees to carry on its work of examining county records and departments.

TRIAL OF A GRAND THEFT CHARGE
Trial of a grand theft charge against Mrs. Jessie Boughner, of Yorba Linda, was scheduled to get under way late today before Superior Judge G. K. Scovel. Mrs. Boughner was accused in connection with sale of a five-acre grove to George C. Oliver, Canadian war veteran, for $15,000, the property later being appraised at $5000 to $6000. Oliver had paid $1000 down on the property, that being the amount involved in the theft charge.

Mrs. Agripina Diaz today filed suit in superior court for divorce from Secundino Diaz, who was sentenced to San Quentin for manslaughter August 28, 1935.

POLICE NEWS
Sheriff's officers today were investigating report of a typewriter theft at the Washington school, La Habra.

A Pacific Freight lines truck driver called sheriff's officers at 3:10 a. m. today to report that a car had collided with a power line pole on 1st highway just north of county hospital and wires were down on the thoroughfare. Power linemen repaired the damage.

On two counts, charging issuance of bank checks with intent to defraud, Russell Noll, 33, transient who was reported to have been a "resident" of Los Angeles county jail last year, was jailed here last evening by Deputy Sheriff James Workman and A. W. Fullerton. Bond was set by Judge D. J. Dodge of Newport Beach township, at $500.

Accused of disturbing the peace, Jack Clabby, 49, Orange, was jailed here last night by Orange officers.

MEXICAN PRESIDENT TO VISIT SAN DIEGO
SAN DIEGO, Cal., Nov. 3.—(UP)—President Lazaro Cardenas, of Mexico, may visit San Diego if he carries out tentative plans for an inspection tour of agrarian projects in Baja California. P. J. Benbough, mayor of San Diego, said today.

The mayor said he had information from Mexico City that President Cardenas is planning a trip to Mexicali, Tijuana, and Ensenada in the near future and probably would include San Diego.

San Diego has a large Mexican colony, one of the outstanding members of which is Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles, former president and one-time "Strong Man" of Mexico, who is living in exile here with his daughter.

Business Girls Plan Winter Program Of Varied Activity

Beginning their activities for the month of November with marked enthusiasm, members of Wrycend Maedens club met last night in the Y.W. rooms for dinner followed by Mrs. John Tessmann's review of "Northwest Passage" by Kenneth Roberts.

More than 40 members and guests took part in the affair over which Miss Jean Ema presided. Mrs. Tessmann's review, the main program feature, was followed by a monthly meeting of the cabinet.

Officers outlined plans for a variety of interesting activities. It was pointed out that all young business women of the community are eligible for membership in Wrycend Maedens (Working Maedens) club. Weekly meetings are held at 6:15 p.m. in the Y.W. rooms, with special programs adding to the interest of routine events. Regular sessions, as well as the special parties which mark the club calendar, are open to all of the younger business women, it was announced. Those whose names are not on the permanent list must make their reservations for dinner by telephoning the Y.W. rooms, 2681.

Following dinner next Tuesday evening will come a program in charge of the Misses Katherine Spicer, Rowena Newcomb and Bonnie Kiser. November 23, was set as the date for a white elephant party which will be arranged by Miss Betty Niederrall, social chairman and Miss Dorothy Jesse, finance chairman.

INTERESTING TRIP

Returning from an extended eastern visit, Miss Mildred Lukens was accompanied by her aunt, Mrs. D. A. Allaman of Monmouth, Ill., who will remain for a winter's visit in the home of her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar C. Lukens, South Sullivan road.

When Miss Lukens left for the east, it was as a passenger aboard the Panama Pacific liner, Pennsylvania. She greatly enjoyed the voyage through Panama canal and her stay in New York City before leaving for Pontiac, Mich., where she secured a new automobile in which to make the homeward journey. She had the pleasure of a visit in Montecito, Ill., with her brother, Ernest Lukens, a teacher in the city schools, before continuing to Monmouth where she was joined by her aunt for the remainder of the journey. They stopped at various points of interest, including Carlsbad Caverns.

Miss Lukens has now resumed her duties at the public stenographic shop on West Fifth street.

Corn was planted by early American Indians when the leaves of the white oak were "the size of a mouse's ear."

You and Your Friends

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Hoge, 522 East Third street, and Mr. and Mrs. William Plummer, 1245 Cypress avenue, spent a recent day at Big Bear. On Navy day, Mrs. Plummer and Mrs. R. L. Mason, 806 Kilson drive, motored to Long Beach where they especially enjoyed the observance given the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Markel, 1429 South Main street, entertained as weekend guests, their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Vaughn Ashen of Beverly Hills and Miss Marjorie Green of Chatsworth. The visitors enjoyed renewing their acquaintance with many of their Santa Ana friends.

J. H. Scott, 1919 North Ross street, has returned home from Los Angeles Good Samaritan hospital, where he underwent a major operation two weeks ago. He is reported making a satisfactory recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Trueblood and son Robert have moved from 1018 Orange avenue to Atlantic avenue between Long Beach and Los Angeles, where Mr. Trueblood has purchased a service station.

R. G. Tutill and daughters, the Misses Mary and Martha Tutill, 2034 Victoria drive, returned last night from a two weeks' trip by motor to Portland, Ore., and other northern points.

Mrs. Oscar Kurtz, 640 North Ross street, and her sister, Mrs. Lawrence Pyie, 529 South Van Ness avenue, spent Sunday with friends in Riverside.

Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Wilson of Tustin have returned from a ten days' trip to Grand Canyon, stopping at Boulder Dam for two days en route to the Arizona National park. On the way home, they stopped in Phoenix, Ariz., to visit with former Santa Anans, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Clem and family, who are pleasantly located in the neighboring state.

Grandson No. 1 Born To Walker Couple Yesterday

A new baby boy, weight eight pounds, four ounces, born to Mr. and Mrs. Herbert C. Walker at Sargeant Maternity hospital yesterday as grandson No. 1 on either side of the family, flooded the countenances of six persons with smiles of happiness today.

Those "in" on the happiness included the new parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman A. Walker, parents of "Daddy," of 130 North Lyon street, and Mr. and Mrs. Otis Harris, parents of "Mama," of Tustin. The Herbert C. Walkers live at Tustin. Baby, whose name hasn't been selected, and mother, are doing well. The baby's great grandfather was the late Dr. Crane, well-known Orange county physician.

TODDY

SERVICES FOR MRS. STEINER ARRANGED

Funeral services for Mrs. Laura Taylor Steiner, former Santa Ana school teacher who died yesterday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Taylor, will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow at the Smith and Tutill chapel, with the Rev. Harry E. Owings, pastor of the First Baptist church, and the Rev. Otto Russell, former pastor of the church, officiating.

Mrs. Steiner who has lived in Kernan, Calif., with her husband, Carl Steiner, came here recently to visit at the home of her parents. She had been a resident of California for 24 years, most of which time she lived in Santa Ana.

In addition to her parents, she is survived by the husband; one son, Carl Steiner; two brothers, Kemper Taylor, Santa Ana and J. W. Taylor Jr., Avonlea and a sister, Mrs. Mark L. Landrum, Plymouth, Calif.

NEW HI-Y CLUB IS FORMED BY GROUP

Formation of a new Hi-Y club and election of officers was announced today by Herbert Thomas, boys' work secretary for the Y. M. C. A. The new club was organized for youths in the Junior class at the Santa Ana high school.

John Geddes was elected president at the organization meeting in the Y. M. C. A. Other officers elected were: John Carlson, secretary; Neal Harper, treasurer; Robert Kelchner, sergeant-at-arms and Jack Marr, program chairman.

Members of the organization are planning an extensive program including physical activities; social service projects for the school and community; group discussion of problems vital to high school youths and emphasis of spiritual or religious affairs.

Mrs. Wentworth spoke coldly. "Jill I've meant to ask you before, but I've been so busy it slipped my mind. You asked Milo to receive with you, of course."

"No," Jill said, "I didn't. I would be encouraging him to believe I care something for him. And I don't. I haven't any use for him, really. I only tolerate him around because of the friendship between father and Mr. Montagne."

"Now, I understand what was the matter," cried Mrs. Wentworth. "Any father would resent the slight to his only child. He adores Milo. Surely, Jill, it isn't too late to ask him to receive with you."

"I won't ask him, mother. It would spoil the party for me."

Jill left the room in a depressed mood. It couldn't be true that a grown man—any adult person—would be petty about a thing like that. Of course, Milo had been hurt, even angry, when he learned Jill planned to ask Bill Whitman to receive with her. He hadn't come near her at Elise's party, and he had been stiff and grumpy at the dinner at the Worthingtons last night.

But he would get over it. He always did. And it wouldn't have been honest asking him to receive with her, when she would have loathed having him.

But she mustn't leave her stepmother in this frame of mind. Jill turned, retraced her steps, and knocked on the door.

"I gave Miss Dexter my list," Jill said, putting her head inside. "Miss Dexter was double-checking, though, and she added several additional men to the list. She said men are always failing you at the last minute for one reason or another."

Presently, Mrs. Wentworth sought Miss Dexter. The secretary, a neat, efficient person in her late thirties, sat at a wide table stamping envelopes. She looked up with professional alertness as Mrs. Wentworth came in.

"I'd like to see Jill's list," Mrs. Wentworth said. "She's so careless. She may have overlooked someone she should invite."

"I don't believe she has," Miss Dexter spoke, slowly. "Miss Dexter handed over several pages written in Jill's up and down and very youthful hand. There was a slight hesitation in her manner."

Mrs. Wentworth's eyes ran down the list. Sudden, y, her brow contracted ominously. She had reached an unfamiliar name: Alan Jeffery.

FINANCIAL AND MARKET NEWS

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(UP)—Prices declined 1 to more than 6 points in moderately active trading on the stock market today. Bonds sagged and commodities were easier. Coffee futures broke a cent a pound, the limit of fluctuation, wheat lost 1 1/2 to 2 1/2 cents and cotton futures were depressed as much as $1 a bale.

Steels led the downturn in stocks. The industry now is operating below 50 per cent of capacity, but the "American Metal Market," found curtailment so drastic that an early upturn was expected.

Automobile shares were under pressure. The "American Motor Market," in its review of steel, noted a decrease in prospective automobile sales.

DRIVE CAREFULLY
- SAVE A LIFE -

A REAL PHILANTHROPIST

It sounds nice to hear a man spoken of as a "great philanthropist." Usually, however, we don't realize the human values back of that word until someone reminds us of them. Felix Warburg, famous New York banker who died the other day, was such a philanthropist. He gave of his time and money to many causes, but probably his most notable contribution was his service as chairman of the distribution committee through which American aid was extended to thousands upon thousands of Jewish people in eastern Europe in the terrible years just after the war.

That was a truly great work, which literally saved thousands of lives. To have had even a small part in it would be cause for just pride; to have directed so much of it is a mark of great distinction. Few Americans have served their fellows as valiantly and effectively as did Mr. Warburg.

PREPARING FOR PEACE

The keel of the United States navy's newest battleship—the first to be built since the Washington treaty of 1922—is laid down two months ahead of time, and work on this naval giant already is underway. The ship will cost $60,000,000 and will carry nine 16-inch guns; it has been christened the North Carolina and it will be ready in 1941.

Considering the woefully unsettled state of the world, it is hard to avoid a feeling of thanksgiving that our fleet is being strengthened by this addition, costly as it is. And if the cost is hard to forget, we might remember that the North Carolina will serve her purpose even if she never fires a shot at any enemy in her entire career.

There still is something to be said for the theory that adequate preparedness can help to keep a nation out of war. If, by the mere fact of her existence, the North Carolina helps make other nations wary of starting trouble with the United States, she will be worth every cent she costs.

THREE OUNCES OF WHISKEY

How much whiskey makes an unsafe driver?

Two jiggers. Dr. Rollo N. Harger, professor of biochemistry and toxicology at Indiana University, gave that estimate to highway traffic experts at the National Safety Congress.

Based on studies made with a new type "chemical breath smeller" with which he seeks to replace the "policeman's nose test," Dr. Harger said that three ounces of whiskey was sufficient to fog the brain and render an automobile driver unsafe. This moderate amount of liquor increases an individual's reaction time—the time required before muscles obey the orders of the brain.

Police reports from various representative states indicate that liquor is a definitely proven factor in 10 to 20 per cent of automobile accidents involving fatalities and serious injuries. It is certain that liquor is an unseen factor in a much higher proportion of cases—cases where it is impossible to obtain legal proof of drinking.

One basic rule of safe driving must be the keeping of alcohol and gasoline far apart.

Dr. Harger describes successful experiments that have been made in developing chemical tests for intoxication. Every police department should keep up with the march of the times and take advantage of the new tests and machines that eliminate the human elements and make the determination of intoxication a scientific fact.

Eliminate the drinking driver and we will have taken a long step toward highway traffic safety.

MORE AND BETTER MUSIC

Sometimes the question is raised as to the value to a community of its various civic organizations and clubs. If that question were ever asked in regard to Santa Ana Musical Arts club, there would be a swift response from the general public, pointing out a value that cannot be measured in dollars and cents, but only in the cultural advantages to the community as a whole.

For aside from the fact that this organization of music teachers has built up a better understanding and a closer fellowship among those responsible for leading the community into paths of musical knowledge, it has gone much farther in bringing here, some of the world's most famous artists and musical groups.

For the Musical Arts club was sponsor of the artist concert series that last year met with such wide interest not in Santa Ana alone, but throughout Orange county. This year the club will continue with a series that will equal if not surpass that of last year in program interest and in fame of the artists to appear.

It has been pointed out that the intangible values created by music, fine libraries, art galleries and similar manifestations of noble thought and feeling, are often too lightly considered. And yet these values should be encouraged and protected as the very flower and fruitage of civilization.

Because of this, it seems to us that citizens of Santa Ana and of Orange county should give support to the concert series, knowing that such support is the thing that makes it possible to offer our youth, the fine cultural things of life that these concerts represent.

Sharing the Comforts Of Life

By R. C. Hoiles

AS TRUE TODAY AS WHEN WRITTEN

Our economic trouble and unemployment is due to the fact that people believe the following statement made by Adam Smith 160 years ago is not now true. Adam Smith said:

"The demand of those who live by wages, therefore, necessarily increases with the increase of the revenue and stock of every country, and cannot possibly increase without it. The increase of revenue and stock is the increase of national wealth."

If the people believed this law were true now, we certainly would not restrict any man from producing wealth by taxing him. We certainly would not consume the capital of our country by taxation to support the government in its necessary expenses. We would support the government out of consumable goods and allow the capital to increase so that wages could be higher and we could support more people at a higher standard of living.

If we believed this principle of economics, we certainly would not, by law, prevent any man from working and producing because he could not get as much for his production as other workers and employers would like to see him get.

If we believed this principle to be true, we would not permit any combinations for restraint of trade or restrictions of production.

If we believed this law to be true today, we would not be calling a session of congress to limit farm production and to limit the hours a man dare work and the wages per hour, not per unit, he must be paid for producing wealth.

By some strange, hypnotic belief, the people have come to believe that this is a land of plenty and that this principle does not now apply. But it applies exactly now as it did when written.

ANOTHER EXCUSE

One of the adult professional educators, the other day, contended that Ford's fortune was largely due to his owning one mine and the inference was that this was the primary cause that had brought about unemployment and a lowered standard of living.

When the party to whom he was talking objected that probably the actual value of the raw material in the automobile, when in the mine, was probably not worth over 50 cents, he remarked that even at 50 cents this would amount to a profit of a half million dollars a year.

What he failed to realize and follow through was that even if this raw material had a value of 50 cents, that the buyer of the automobile did not destroy this natural resource, this wealth; that when his automobile was worn out, as far as use was concerned, it still had the natural resource that had not been destroyed and belonged to the purchaser of the automobile. So, there had been no unfairness nor damage done by permitting the private use of natural resources.

If the natural resources are not to be used or owned by any one, then of what value could they be to society? History has proved that private citizens can use these natural resources to a much better advantage than the federal government; that when they belong to everybody, they belong to nobody. The only possible way of using them is to allow them to be used by some private individual and some private individual turn them into things that will be of great benefit to humanity.

MORAL DECAY

People as a whole have become so accustomed to taking the fruits of other people's labor and giving nothing in return that it does not seem to create any resentment any more.

On this subject, the scientist, Einstein, says, "The world has slowly grown accustomed to symptoms of moral decay. One misses the elementary reaction against injustice and for justice—that reaction which, in the long run, represents man's only protection against relapse into barbarism."

Professor Einstein sent the above remarks to the Y.M.C.A. convention. He asserted that there are "before our eyes dangers which even the darkest pessimists of the last century did not dream of."

As the scientist says, we have come to generally believe "Right is that which serves us."

When people get away from the Universal rule being the Golden Rule and decide that anything is right that serves the individual, there is not much chance for progress until we revert back to the fundamental principle that the Universal Rule is the Golden Rule.

The Nation's Press

JUST FOOLISHNESS

The United States contains six per cent of the world's area and seven per cent of its population. It normally consumes forty-eight per cent of its tin, fifty-six per cent of its rubber, twenty-one per cent of its sugar, seventy-two per cent of its silk, thirty-six per cent of its coal, forty-two per cent of its pig iron, forty-seven per cent of its copper, and sixty-nine per cent of its crude petroleum.

The United States operates sixty per cent of the world's telephone and telegraph facilities, owns eighty per cent of the motor cars in use, operates thirty-three per cent of the railroads. It produces seventy per cent of the oil, sixty per cent of the wheat and cotton, fifty per cent of the copper and pig iron, and forty per cent of the lead and coal output of the globe.

The United States possesses almost $11,000,000,000 in gold, or nearly half of the world's monetary metal. It has two-thirds of civilization's banking resources. The purchasing power of the population is greater, than that of the 500,000,000 people in Europe and much larger than that of the more than a billion Asiatics.

Responsible leadership which cannot translate such a bulging economy into assured prosperity is destitute of capacity. But pompous statesmen, looking over the estate, solemnly declare that the methods by which it was created are all wrong, ought to be abandoned, must be discarded, that the time has come to substitute political management for individual initiative and supervision.

There is only one way to characterize that proposal—it is just damn foolishness.—London Sphere.

Register Clearing House

(The articles under the Clearing House are published for the purpose of an exchange of ideas and are not necessarily the opinion of this newspaper. Contributors are urged to confine their articles to 300 words.)

Editor Register: While my sympathies are with the old people who desire the enactment of the Townsend Plan into law, I am compelled to admit that Bill Ayr sized the plan up correctly when he termed it and every other freak plan, which saves, rather than costs the taxpayers more, as "economic perpetual motion."

It would be nice if the Townsend plan would solve our old age problem, but like every plan that has been proposed, outside of plain self denial and "digging down," it is economically unsound.

My blood boils when I think of the many old people who exchanged a Townsend Plan endorsement for a block of Townsend votes, in the past few years. I dare say it would make an interesting chapter to read from one of these candidates who rode into office on Dr. Townsend's coattails, just how the plan would work.

Also while they are about it they might show us where they learned the old people of Finland had their government giving them $225 per month to spend. I have heard that rumor myself, before Mr. Wentz mentioned it in the Register Clearing House. But I have searched high and low for corroboration or denial. While I found other countries who pensioned their aged, I could find no pension plan of any kind in Finland. I may still be wrong but proof would be interesting.

Two cents on every dollar of our national turnover would pay about one twentieth of what the Townsend beneficiaries expect, and if the turnover were large enough to pay the eight million or so, old people two hundred, their standard of living would be far below what it is now. It would make little difference whether they spent or hoarded the money, as we could not force it to circulate after they had spent it. Of course they would have to spend it to exist, but what an existence.

To pay a little over $300,000,000 people $2400 a year would take about $20,000,000,000. Figure it up. If this enormous sum were only two per cent of the national turnover our turnover annually would be about $1,000,000,000,000. Figure that up.

With only about 70,000,000 adults to turn that over, and about 8,000,000 people turning over, the other $20,000,000,000, then the other 62,000,000 adults would have to handle and turn over, in order to pay the tax, the total of $980,000,000,000 or an average of $16,333.33 per person. Figure that up.

This drastic devaluation of the dollar would bring about a $30,000 or a $35,000 standard of living for each family which the Townsend couples would vainly try to keep pace with on their $4,800 annual income.

How much better off would they be than they now are under the California benefits at present? We can't give the old people our cigarette coupons or point them to the mythical pot of gold at the end of a rainbow and expect them to live on that. It takes real self denial to provide properly for the old people, but they are our parents and did as much for us and we ought to reciprocate without complaining. We can't give them anything like $200 per month but by digging a little deeper we can make them comfortable, after industry no longer wants them. That are willing to admit, when they spoke of the Golden Age experienced by former people, a land of the Lost Horizon. Primitive man was slightly intelligent—not an evolved ape.

The reason for our low ethical standards is due to confining our ethical standards to a Jew Book, the Bible. The Hebrew standards are too low, too biased, too nationalistic, and so we experience periodic slumps, times of moral and social chaos. The Jewish ideal has been to enjoy without labor, to steal lands, to slay women and children, to enslave others to fulfill their purpose. This program has always resulted disastrously. For four thousand years it has always been the same. The Bible has made us so callous, that we raise no voice of protest against the murderous campaigns of Italy and Japan. It fulfills our prophetic program and lust for blood, hence we are benighted pagans, being led astray because "the Bible says so."

It is time we did some constructive thinking, even though it may not be popular. Man was made for a distinct purpose, to fulfill a definite task, to make a contribution to the world. Certainly, he was not created a parasite. He has not degenerated into a workless wonder. By nature, he was created to work, to create, to live in brotherly love, to form a society based upon kindness and a determination to do what is right.

Man is a moral being, inherently divine. His chief handicap is not sin, but a liability to make mistakes. The remedy is to discover a new idealism. The great philosopher taught, no higher attitude of mind can one attain than that he devote his existence to the service of others. That true activity does not consist in the abundance of things, but in an attempt to help others to find food, clothing and shelter. That it is possible to tune in with the Infinite, and experience the blessing of living in harmony with the Directing Intelligence.

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The price we pay for gold is going up in London. It is at the highest point for some time. It takes more dollars and cents to buy an ounce of gold than it did.

That may or may not mean a great deal. If such a trend should continue rapidly—I, e., that a dollar will buy less and less gold, it means that, in terms of the traditional yardstick, the dollar is less and less valuable. In other words, that it will buy fewer things, that the prices of everything and the cost of living will rise rapidly, that your wages will be worth less and less, and that savings, insurance policies, social security pensions, and all present debts and fixed incomes will also be of less and less actual worth. That would be real inflation—the fear and dread of every prudent and informed statesman—the greatest threat and danger to every man who works for a living.

This situation is terribly mixed and unpredictable because of a great number of artificial and arbitrary controls that Congress has granted to the Administration. We have a tremendous hoard of gold. If any such "flight from the dol-

HANGNAILS SHOULD RECEIVE PROPER CARE TO PREVENT PAINFUL INFECTION OF NAILS

This is the eleventh of a series of articles in which Dr. Morris Fishbein discusses diseases of the skin.

Around the fingernails infections may develop in the soft tissues exactly as they occur in other portions of the body—except that they are frequently associated with hangnails and that they are more serious because they may damage the nail bed so severely as to bring about changes in the fingernails. The situation is sometimes called whitlow.

Not only does this condition follow a hangnail that is torn off, leaving an opening which the pus germs may invade, but it also appears in association with infection from irritations of various kinds and in eczema and syphilis. The condition may affect just one fingernail or several.

When it is associated with a skin disease, more than one fingernail is usually involved. The pain is mild at first, but if much pus forms beneath the fingernails, the pain may become quite severe.

The fingernails are horny plates which serve to some extent to protect the ends of the fingers and toes. A normal fingernail is smooth and curved from side to side but very slightly curved in its length.

The lightly colored area at the base of the fingernail is called the lunula. In this portion of the nail the active growth goes on. The skin next to this lunula is called the cuticle.

If the fingernails are kept fairly short, they are, of course, easier to take care of than when they are permitted to become too long. The question is frequently asked as to whether or not polishing and color-enameling, such as is now done, are harmful to the nails.

There is no evidence that this does in any way harm the fingernail. Careful pushing back of the cuticle so as to make a nice-appearing lunula is also harmless if it is done with smooth, clean instruments.

It is dangerous, however, to cut the cuticle with a knife or scissors. Manicurists, if they are well trained, sterilize their instruments when they are used on one person to another. Biting or picking hangnails instead of removing them with sterile instruments is likely to be associated with infections around the fingernails.

News Behind the News

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Nothing is dead in Washington until it is buried in the official record, BUT—

That treaty with Panama about dividing responsibilities with the U. S. for the protection of the canal in case of war is under six feet of accumulated dust, permanently. And thereby hangs a tale of as neat an inside job as ever has gone unreported.

All that State Secretary Hull will now say is that his department is naturally still interested in any treaty it has sent to the senate, even though the treaty has not been acted upon. This is as near as a diplomat can get to conceding something he does not wish to concede, but on the inside, where officials speak more freely, it is generally understood the subject will not be pressed at the coming session, or ever.

Here is the way it happened:

The president sent up to the senate in March, 1936, a treaty settling differences that had arisen or might arise with Panama in our efforts to protect the canal zone. Among the things recommended was "joint supervision of all radio matters in case of emergency."

The navy did not like that and other similar restrictions, and sent a confidential report to the senate foreign relations committee, saying so. Later on the report was withdrawn or the navy changed its mind. The general assumption being that the state department had gone upstairs and brought second floor influence to use.

This did not change the minds of some senators, notably Hiram Johnson of California, who called the treaty "an outrage on our people." He, virtually singlehanded, prevented the committee from reporting it to the senate. Thus, it still remains today in suspended animation.

The state department apparently still thinks (in obvious self-defense) that Johnson was needlessly alarmed about difficulties that might arise in naval communications and other matters "in event of emergency" in Panama. Not so the navy. If any second floor influence was used there it has lost its use.

No official navy comment is being made, but it is evident the navy hopes and expects to have things left as they are.

And that is how they will be left.

What has kept the story almost completely under cover is the fact that the treaty has never officially been made public. A Panama paper printed some of it, but under the senate rule here it is supposed to be kept confidential until the committee passes on it. That is such an obviously ridiculous rule in matters of debatable public policy, few authorities accept it. A copy generally can be found, if you look in the right place. If you do this time, you will find:

Most of the treaty proposes to settle minor differences of administration, even down to such things as handling "truck gardeners and hucksters" on Panamanian and Canal Zone soil. The state department tried to get around particular restrictions by Article X which reads: "In case of an international conflagration or the existence of any threat of aggression which would endanger the security of Panama or the neutrality or security of the Panama canal, the governments of the U. S. A. and Panama will take such measures of prevention and defense as they may consider necessary for the protection of their common interests." But the radio provisions call for instance for the transfer to Panama of two naval radio stations which the navy ceased to operate in July, 1935, and imposes other radio obligations which sounded better at the time than they do now.

The way those CIO-AFL peace negotiations have been alternately shaking hands and then fists is not as meaningless as it looks. Their own personal slant is they cannot afford to quit and they are unable to make peace. That really was the dominant reason for the Thursday get-together arrangements after the squabble last week.

This factor may prolong the negotiations, but so far it has not been bringing the final outcome any closer in the opinion of those who have been sitting in.

Today's 1940 prospect—American High Commissioner Paul McNutt to the Philippines; experienced Indiana lawyer; war major; Legion leader; and state governor; excellent radio and stump personality. His chance: Virtually non-existent in view of spats with administration authorities during his Indiana governorship which caused Farleyites to turn thumbs down.

Other controls directly affecting business are in the taxing system. It is admitted now by most observers out of government and—except a few influential die-hards—in government itself, that the present capital gains and undistributed profits taxes nail the feet of business expansion to the floor and will result not only in reduced revenue but also in retarded recovery—or worse.

Looking the whole situation over at this juncture, it doesn't look very well for the theories of "managed" money and "managed" economy—or perhaps more accurately—for the quality of the particular management.

What are being managed are business and financial matters of the greatest magnitude in the world, the vast business and finance of the government itself but also, and even more important, the business and finance and jobs and wages of every person in the country. Business and finance are professions. In major operations they require at least the skill and experience of medicine or surgery.

Most of the men who are doing this mammoth management never in their lives proved any skill or showed any experience at all in either business or finance. Could that possibly be the trouble?
